Item 5. Other events

On Tuesday, February 17, 2004, Vulcan International Corporation, through two of its subsidiaries, Vulcan Corporation and Vulcan Bowling Pin Company (collectively referred to as "Vulcan") filed a formal complaint against Brunswick Corporation and two of its subsidiaries (collectively referred to as "Brunswick") in the Court of Common Pleas in Hamilton County, Ohio. The complaint seeks judgment to enforce the terms of a "buy-sell" offer for $2,000,000, compensatory damages of $10,000,000 and punitive damages of $40,000,000. In addition, Vulcan is seeking a judgment declaring that it has no obligation to purchase bowling pins from Brunswick and that it may purchase such bowling pins for resale from any source whatsoever.

Edgar Filing: VULCAN INTERNATIONAL CORP - Form 8-K

Vulcan and Brunswick had formed a partnership in 1990 for the purpose of producing bowling pins. Under the terms of their agreement, and more specifically a "buy-sell" provision included in the agreement, Brunswick had offered to purchase and Vulcan had agreed to sell, Vulcan's interest in the partnership for $2,000,000. Subsequently, Brunswick refused to purchase Vulcan's interest for the agreed-upon price unless Vulcan agreed to indemnify Brunswick for any claims which might be made against Brunswick in the future and to provide Brunswick with unspecified representations and warranties.
