GoldRich Mining Company (GoldRich or the Company) reports that it has terminated its mining leases on two properties it had under active exploration for gold deposits. The Company has relinquished its Broken Hills West, Nevada and the Pedra de Fogo, Brazil exploration properties. The properties were returned to their owners on May 30 and June 3, 2008, respectively, in full compliance with the termination provisions of both of the mining leases. The Company has no retained interests or liabilities in or associated with either property.

GoldRich undertook these measures to conserve its resources, and also because management believes the technical results of the exploration works so far for either property did not justify keeping them in light of upcoming financial and work obligations contained in both leases.

GoldRich plans to continue exploration of its wholly owned Chandalar, Alaska and gold mining exploration property where it has discovered a substantial alluvial gold deposit, and where it has identified drilling targets for large sedimentary-type lode gold targets associated with the alluvial gold deposit. The Company is currently drilling on its Marisol, Mexico mining lease, and is expecting the assay results of the drill cores soon.
