SHAREHOLDER-RELATED QUESTIONS:

1) Does the 1.444 ratio between Constellation Energy & FPL set at the time the deal was announced mean that, whatever the price of the FPL stock at the day of the closing, it will be 1.444 times that amount that we will receive?

The 1.444 ratio represents the stock split that Constellation Energy will effect in connection with the merger. As a result of the stock split, each Constellation Energy shareholder will receive 1.444 shares of common stock for each share of Constellation Energy common stock held immediately prior to the completion of the merger. A cash payment will be received for any fraction of a share resulting from the stock split based on the market value of Constellation Energy's common stock on the last trading day before the closing of the merger.

For example: If a Constellation Energy shareholder currently owns 100 shares of Constellation Energy common stock, the shareholder will be entitled to receive 144 shares of Constellation Energy common stock and a cash payment for the market value of 0.40 shares at the close of business on the last trading day before the closing date of the merger.

Immediately following the stock split, each share of FPL common stock will be exchanged for one share of Constellation Energy common stock. As a result of the merger, Constellation Energy shareholders will continue to hold their shares of Constellation Energy common stock, as adjusted by the stock split.

2) Was the decision to stop optional cash investments in Constellation Energy stock through American Stock and Transfer's dividend reinvestment fund merger related? If not, why?

Yes. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) regulations require that we temporarily suspend accepting optional cash investments through the dividend reinvestment plan until certain pro forma financial information regarding the combined company is filed with the SEC. Once that financial information is filed we will instruct the transfer agent to again accept optional cash investments. The ability of dividend reinvestment plan participants to reinvest dividends is not affected.

EMPLOYEE-RELATED QUESTIONS:

3) Will there be job opportunities after the merger? Will Constellation Energy employees be considered for positions in Florida?

The merger is expected to provide enhanced career opportunities by way of a larger, more diversified company. Decisions regarding job opportunities and staffing for the combined company will be made as part of the transition and integration planning process. Information will be communicated to employees at the appropriate time.

4) Will there be any changes to our Total Rewards package as a result of the merger?

Currently, each company offers competitive compensation and employee benefits, including Employee Savings Plans and other retirement plans.

The combined company will develop its own pay and benefits policies, and at this time, no decisions have been made. Decisions will be made as part of the transition and integration planning process, and information will be communicated to employees at the appropriate time.

5) Constellation currently offers Domestic Partnership Benefits for same-sex couples. Will these same benefits be offered by the combined company?

These decisions will be made as part of the transition and integration planning process. Information will be communicated to employees at the appropriate time.

6) I am interested in what the combined company policies will be around retirement. Will existing retirement plans be in jeopardy?

There is no immediate impact to retiree benefits. Retirees will continue with their current benefit programs. At Constellation Energy, we are committed to providing a competitive Total Rewards package. We continuously evaluate the value, cost and competitiveness of our benefits program, which includes retiree benefits.

7) Will there be a retirement buyout? Will people near retirement be advised if it will be better to retire before or after the merger?

Decisions will be made as part of the transition and integration process. Information will be communicated to employees at the appropriate time.

In addition, choosing to retire is a personal decision made by an employee. Prior to making this decision, employees close to retirement are encouraged to contact the Benefits Unit to request pertinent information regarding retirement benefits.

8) FPL is unionized. Will the National Labor Relations Board require BGE-Constellation to be unionized? Will we get a vote in the matter?

The National Labor Relations Act provides employees with the right to choose whether or not to be represented by a labor union through a secret ballot election. Even upon the successful close of the merger, a union will not automatically represent non-unionized CEG employees without a vote.
