DuPont and Dow to Combine in Merger of Equals/ DuPont Announces $700MM Cost Savings and Restructuring Plan for 2016

From: Ed Breen, DuPont Chair and CEO

December 11, 2015

Dear Colleagues,

Today, we are making several important announcements that will significantly enhance our future strength and competitiveness. As you know, we have been looking carefully at the next steps in our transformation. I want to explain personally why I believe the actions we are announcing today are the right steps for DuPont at the right time.

First, we announced that DuPont will combine with Dow in a merger of equals. You can read our joint press release for more information. This transaction brings together two great companies with a combined portfolio of highly complementary businesses. By joining our two exceptional teams, we will be better equipped to serve more customers worldwide with value-added products and solutions across key industries.

After we close the merger, which we expect to happen in the second half of 2016, we intend to pursue a separation of the combined company into three strong, independent, publicly traded companies, each focused on attractive markets.

- Agriculture Company: Leading global pure-play agriculture company that unites DuPont's and Dow's seed and crop protection businesses. The combined entity will have the most comprehensive and diverse portfolio, and a robust pipeline with exceptional growth opportunities in the near-, mid- and long-term.
- Material Science Company: A pure-play industrial leader, consisting of DuPont's Performance Materials operating segment, as well as Dow's Performance Plastics, Performance Materials and Chemicals, Infrastructure Solutions and Consumer Solutions (excluding the Electronic Materials business) operating segments. The combination will create a low-cost, innovation-driven leader in industry segments in packaging, transportation and construction with a broad and deep portfolio of cost-effective offerings.
- Specialty Products Company: A technology driven innovative leader, focused on unique businesses that share similar investment characteristics and specialty market focus. The businesses will include DuPont's Nutrition & Health, Industrial Biosciences, Safety & Protection and Electronics & Communications, as well as the Dow Electronic Materials business. Together, their complementary offerings create a new global leader in Electronic Materials, and each business will benefit from more targeted investment in their technology and new product development capabilities.

Each business will have a leadership position in its industry, will be able to allocate capital more effectively, apply its powerful innovation more productively and extend its value-added products and solutions to more customers worldwide. Each new company will have a strong foundation for the future built on our combined histories of science and innovation.

Looking ahead, we expect these businesses to grow and thrive, delivering significant value for our shareholders and customers, and new opportunities for our people.

We also announced today a new restructuring and cost reduction program. As you know, we have worked over the past few years to become more efficient and nimble. Yet even as we have evolved, the environment in which we operate has grown more complex and competitive. To remain strong and to position ourselves for the most successful future possible, we must accelerate our efforts to permanently reduce our cost structure, further streamline and simplify our organization and align our businesses more closely to end markets. This includes redeploying previously centralized staff functions to the business units and integrating several of our lines of business.

Change on this scale is difficult and the impact will be felt throughout the organization. I recognize there will be a lot of questions. Our business and functional leaders will share information in December and January to help everyone understand specific changes, how our process will work, how we will support our people and what you can expect.

For the past few months, I have been impressed by how the commitment to our Core Values helps our teams work together respectfully to achieve our common goals. This commitment will be especially important during this next phase of our evolution. We all need to pull together. We also need to do our best to keep the business on track, delivering for our customers and staying safe.

Until the merger is complete, we must continue to operate as independent entities. The merger is not expected to close until the second half of next year and the intended separation would not occur until 18-24 months after that.

I want to thank you in advance for your continued focus on all the critical work we have ahead of us. We will communicate with you regularly as we move forward.

Over the long term, I believe the steps we are taking today will open up a new era of growth for DuPont. I have personally seen the opportunity that can be created when businesses are launched as strong, focused, independent entities and I am confident in our ability to successfully take the company through this next stage of our transformation and emerge as thriving, sustainable companies for the long term.

Sincerely,

Ed
