APPENDIX IV: DETAILED INFORMATION ON AIA GROUP

This Appendix contains certain forward looking statements relating to the AIA Group that are based on the beliefs of AIA Group's management as well as assumptions made by and information currently available to AIA Group's management. These forward looking statements are, by their nature, subject to significant risks and uncertainties. These forward looking statements include, without limitation, statements relating to trends in prices, volumes, operations, margins, overall market trends, risk management and exchange rates. These forward looking statements are not a guarantee of future performance. You are strongly cautioned that reliance on any forward looking statements involves known and unknown risks and uncertainties. Actual results and events may differ materially from information contained in the forward looking statements as a result of a number of factors, including:

Difficult operating conditions have had a material impact and may continue to materially impact our business, financial condition, results of operations and liquidity.

Interest rate fluctuations may materially and adversely affect our profitability.

We may be unable to match closely the duration of our assets and liabilities, which could increase our exposure to interest rate risk.

An actual or perceived reduction in our financial strength or a downgrade in our credit ratings could increase policy surrenders and withdrawals, damage our business relationships and negatively impact new sales of our products.

Our cross-border operations pose complex foreign currency, management, legal, tax and economic risks.

If we are not able to attract, motivate and retain agency leaders and individual agents, our competitive position, growth and profitability will suffer.

We depend on key management and actuarial, information technology, investment management, underwriting, sales staff and other personnel, and our business, profitability and prospects would suffer if we lose their services and are unable to adequately replace them.

Differences between actual benefits and claims experience and underwriting and reserving assumptions, as well as deviations from the assumptions used in pricing our products, could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations.

Agent, employee and distribution partner misconduct is difficult to detect and deter and could harm our reputation or lead to regulatory sanctions or litigation against us.

Losses on our investments may have a material adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations.

Increases in the amount of allowances and impairments taken on our investments could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations.

Our businesses are highly regulated and future regulatory changes may occur and could result in financial losses or harm to our business.

The impact of epidemics, international tension, terrorist attacks, ongoing and new wars, military actions, natural disasters or other catastrophes may materially and adversely affect our claims experience, investment portfolio, financial condition and results of operations.

Over our long operating history, our geographical markets have undergone significant legal and regulatory changes and there have been significant changes in the ownership, management, personnel and reporting structures of our businesses. This may make it difficult for us to identify all liabilities associated with our historical activities.

We are subject to risks related to currency fluctuations and regulation.

De-pegging of the HK dollar may adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations.

We may need additional capital in the future, and we cannot assure you that we will be able to obtain such capital on acceptable terms or at all.

Our risk management policies and procedures and internal controls, as well as the risk management tools available to us, may not be adequate or effective.

We may have difficulty implementing our new financial reporting and information systems and processes.

Failure to secure new distribution relationships, as well as any termination or disruption of our existing distribution relationships, may have a material adverse effect on our competitiveness and result in a material impact on our financial condition and results of operations.

Concentration of our investment portfolio in any particular asset class, market or segment of the economy may increase our risk of suffering investment losses.

We are subject to the credit risk of our investment counterparties, including the issuers or borrowers whose securities or loans we hold.

We hold significant amounts of sovereign debt obligations in our investment portfolio.

We rely on third party service providers in several areas of our operations and therefore do not have full control over the services provided to us or our customers.

Our actual financial performance may vary materially from the financial information contained in this announcement.

Litigation and regulatory investigations may result in significant financial losses and harm to our reputation.

Our business and prospects may be materially and adversely affected if we are not able to manage our growth successfully.

We may undertake investments, acquisitions, distribution arrangements, partnerships and new business lines and strategies, which may not be successful.

Our operations could be disrupted by unexpected network interruptions caused by system failures, natural disasters or terrorist attacks, as well as by unauthorised tampering with, or security breaches of, our information technology systems.

Our brand names and intellectual property are important to us and we may not be able to protect them.

We face risks related to changes in our ownership.

We face significant competition and our business and prospects will be materially harmed if we are not able to compete effectively.

Consolidation of distributors of insurance, investment and pension products may have a material adverse effect on the industry and the profitability of our business.

Compliance with solvency requirements may force us to raise additional capital, change our business strategy or reduce our growth.

The rate of growth of the life insurance, investment and pension industries in the Asia Pacific region may not be as high or as sustainable as we anticipate.

Customer preferences for insurance, investments and pension products as well as wealth management solutions may change and we may not respond appropriately or in time to sustain our business or our market share in the geographical markets in which we operate.

Government measures and regulations in response to financial and other crises may materially and adversely affect our business.

Changes in taxation on our business may materially and adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

OVERVIEW

The AIA Group is a leading life insurance organisation in Asia Pacific that traces its roots in the region back more than 90 years. It provides individuals and businesses with products and services for their evolving insurance, protection, savings, investments and retirement needs in 15 geographical markets in the region: Hong Kong, Korea, Thailand, Singapore, China, Malaysia, the Philippines, Australia, Indonesia, Vietnam, Taiwan, New Zealand, India, Macau and Brunei. In FY 2009, the AIA Group had USD11,632 billion in total weighted premium income ("TWPI"). As of 30 November 2009, it had USD90.7 billion in total assets and total equity attributable to shareholders of AIA of USD14.9 billion.

The AIA Group believes that it has a scale and scope in the Asia Pacific region that its competitors may find difficult to replicate, particularly in more developed markets. As of 30 November 2009 the AIA Group had approximately 23,500 employees serving the holders of its more than 23 million in-force policies and more than 10 million participating members of its clients for group life, medical, credit life coverage and pension products.

The AIA Group derives substantially all of its premiums from its 15 geographical markets across the Asia Pacific region. The AIA Group's individual local operating units are significant businesses in their own right, with Hong Kong, Singapore and Thailand each contributing more than USD350 million of operating profit in FY 2009. At the same time, in FY 2008 and FY 2009, no more than 25 per cent. of the AIA Group's TWPI came from any one geographical market.

The AIA Group's extensive book of in-force business has created a stable operating profit base, with high renewal premiums (84.1 per cent. of its TWPI consisted of renewal premium in 2009). In FY 2009 the AIA Group had an operating profit of USD1,835 million and an operating margin of 15.8 per cent.. In addition, as of

30 November 2009

, it had capital significantly in excess of its requirements under relevant Hong Kong insurance regulatory guidance and it complies with relevant capital adequacy requirements in each of its geographical markets.

The AIA Group was a market leader in the Asia Pacific region based on life insurance premiums in 2008, and held number one positions in 6 of its 15 geographical markets. The AIA Group was also the largest foreign life insurer in China in terms of life insurance premiums during the same period. Due to its historic roots in the Asia Pacific region, the AIA Group has built a network of almost entirely wholly-owned businesses operating as branches or subsidiaries, in contrast to most other multi-national insurance companies which operate via joint ventures and partnerships with domestic companies. In addition, the AIA Group believes it possesses a strong brand name and brand awareness in the markets it serves and a reputation as an industry leader in quality and service excellence.

Since 1931, the AIA Group has been building its tied agency force that spans the Asia Pacific region from developed urban centres to rural areas. As of

30 November 2009

, the AIA Group's tied agency force consisted of more than 320,000 agents. In each of Hong Kong, Singapore, and Thailand, the AIA Group's agency force made up more than 20 per cent. of the total agents in that market in 2008. The AIA Group believes it has the leading agency presence in these markets based on total agents.

More recently, the AIA Group has expanded, and continues to expand, its other distribution channels, particularly bancassurance and direct marketing, to create a multi-channel distribution platform that is tailored to the unique characteristics of its geographical markets. This has significantly increased the AIA Group's exposure and reach. For example, its bancassurance relationships provide potential access to more than 13,000 of its partners' bank branches.

As a result of its long track record in the region, the AIA Group has also acquired significant experience and know how that enables it to provide insurance products and services across all classes of consumers, from the mass market to high net worth individuals in diverse geographical markets.

HISTORY AND REORGANISATION

HISTORY

Introduction

The AIA Group

traces its roots in Asia to 1919 when Cornelius Vander Starr, a young American entrepreneur, established a fire and marine insurance agency in Shanghai - a key commercial centre of the region at that time. From this beginning, the foundations were laid for many of the Asia Pacific life insurance businesses that today form the core of the AIA Group's business, as well as a network of life insurance, general insurance, financial services and asset management businesses that would span the globe and become one of the world's largest insurance and financial services groups, AIG. Leveraging its legacy in the region, the AIA Group has become a leading life insurer stretching across Asia Pacific, whose future growth and prospects remain intrinsically linked to the future growth and dynamism of the region. The AIA Group's history is also interwoven with that of the growth and development of AIG into a world leader in insurance and financial services until it experienced a series of events in 2008 described in "- The Growth of the Global Group which Became AIG" that have required AIG to undertake a comprehensive global divestment and restructuring program.

The Founding of the AIA Group

In 1931, AIA's principal operating subsidiary, AIA Limited, was initially registered in Shanghai as a Hong Kong company under the name International Assurance Company, Limited ("INTASCO") to sell life insurance as part of Mr. Starr's growing group of insurance operations based in Shanghai. Within seven years, INTASCO's business had expanded into several other markets in Asia Pacific through the establishment of branches in Singapore (1931), Hong Kong (1931), Malaysia (1934) and Thailand (1938), all of which remain key markets for the AIA Group today.

In many Asia Pacific markets, the AIA Group was among the first to begin selling life insurance, and its early entry into these markets has given it an historic advantage in establishing an ownership structure and operating infrastructure that the AIA Group believes would be difficult for its competitors to replicate. As life insurance industry pioneers in the region, the AIA Group has gained invaluable experience and contributed to the development of the insurance industry in many of its markets. For example, the AIA Group was among the first to develop and implement the tied agency model that remains an important distribution channel in the region today.

In 1939, Mr. Starr moved his group's headquarters to New York as political instability increased in Asia. Two years later, business activity in the Asia Pacific region was significantly impacted by the Pacific War. At the end of the war, the group moved quickly to return to Asia and re-open its operations in China.

In the late 1940s, an extensive reorganisation of Mr. Starr's group of expanding insurance operations was undertaken and the network of companies was organised into distinct groups based on their businesses and geographic coverage. At INTASCO, this led to the changing of its name to AIA Limited and the assignment of a designated role within the group to sell life insurance in South East Asia.

In 1947, events in China led to the transfer of AIA Limited's regional office to Hong Kong and, in late 1950, the closure of the Shanghai office and the suspension of operations in the PRC. The AIA Group's new Hong Kong base became the platform for a program of post-war expansion that permitted it to leverage its historic roots and grow its life insurance network and business across the Asia Pacific region. Through the years, the geographic footprint of the AIA Group companies has expanded to include Brunei (1957), Australia (1970), Macau (1982), New Zealand (1981), Indonesia (1984), Korea (1987), Taiwan (1990), Vietnam (2000) and India (2001). Hong Kong was also the gateway back to the AIA Group's roots in mainland China in 1992 when it became the first foreign insurer to receive a licence to sell life insurance in the PRC and opened a branch office in Shanghai. In 2008, the AIA Group was the largest foreign life insurance company in terms of life insurance premiums operating in the PRC with licensed sales offices in two provinces (Guangdong and Jiangsu) and three cities (Shanghai, Beijing and Shenzhen).

Today, the AIA Group's Hong Kong base is the hub of an insurance network that spans the following 15 geographical markets:

The Growth of the Global Group which Became AIG

As part of the global reorganisation of worldwide operations after the Second World War, it was decided that Mr. Starr's U.S. businesses would be managed and serviced from New York, while the non-U.S. businesses would be managed from Bermuda. A new Bermuda holding company named American International Company Limited was established by a special Act of the Bermudan parliament in December 1947. This holding company incorporated two subsidiaries - one, American International Underwriters Overseas, Ltd., to hold the general insurance businesses outside of the United States and the other, American International Reinsurance Company (Panama), Inc. ("AIRCO-P"), to hold the life insurance businesses in Asia.

Through the 1950s and 1960s, Mr. Starr's group of companies continued to grow rapidly. AIG's current corporate structure began to emerge in 1967 following another corporate reorganisation that led to the formation by AIRCO-P, as a controlling shareholder, of AIG to hold the shares of the U.S.- based companies. In 1969, under the leadership of a new generation of management led by Maurice R. Greenberg, AIG's shares began trading on the over-the-counter market in the United States. As a result of a series of reorganisation transactions during the 1970s, AIA Limited and other affiliated businesses became members of the AIG Group. In 1984, AIG's shares were listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The turn of the 21st century marked a new period of significant growth for AIG and included a number of significant acquisitions. By 2007, AIG had grown to be one of the largest financial services groups in the world with assets of approximately USD1 trillion and USD110 billion in annual revenues and 116,000 employees in 130 countries and jurisdictions.

Over the years, AIG built upon its premier global franchises in life and general insurance by expanding into a range of financial services businesses, including AIG Financial Products Corp., a company that engaged as principal in a wide variety of financial transactions for a global client base. During the second half of 2008, AIG experienced an unprecedented strain on liquidity. This strain led to a series of transactions with the FRBNY and the U.S. Treasury Department. The two principal causes of the liquidity strain were demands for the return of cash collateral under AIG's U.S. securities lending program and collateral calls on AIG Financial Product Corp.'s super senior multisector CDO credit default swap portfolio.

Both of these liquidity strains were significantly exacerbated by the downgrades of AIG's long term debt ratings by S&P, Moody's and Fitch on 15 September 2008.

As a result of these immediate liquidity requirements and other events (collectively, the "AIG Events"), and AIG's inability to find a viable private sector solution to its liquidity issues, AIG entered into an USD85 billion revolving credit agreement, as amended (the "FRBNY Credit Agreement") with the FRBNY on 22

September 2008. Since 2008, the FRBNY and the U.S. Treasury Department have extended significant additional financial assistance to the AIG Group in the form of debt and equity investments..

With the FRBNY Credit Agreement in place, the AIG management team developed a plan to sell or separate many of AIG's leading businesses, including AIA, in order to repay the FRBNY loan.

In March 2009, AIG announced adjustments to existing restructuring plans and several new initiatives. At that time, AIG announced that it had agreed to transfer its equity ownership of AIA Limited to a special purpose vehicle in return for a reduction of the debt owed by AIG under the FRBNY Credit Agreement.

Impact of the AIG Events on the AIA Group

The impact of the AIG Events on AIA Limited included primarily reputational damage and the adverse impact on its capitalisation resulting from the decline in the value of AIG stock owned by AIA Limited. Throughout this period, AIA Limited worked closely with its regulators to ensure that policyholders were not adversely impacted by the AIG Events and to comply with regulatory requirements (including regulatory orders designed to protect AIA's assets in several of its geographical markets). Subsequent to the AIG Events, AIA Limited's management moved quickly to enhance the capital adequacy of the AIA Group by unwinding certain arrangements with the AIG Group.

AIA's Next Chapter

Building on its 90-year heritage, the AIA Group's core businesses in the Asia Pacific region have historically been operated locally while remaining part of AIG's overall governance stewardship. The AIA Group's profitable businesses have permitted the AIA Group to finance and construct a largely standalone operating infrastructure in the region. The AIA Group has been engaged in a series of separation initiatives since 2007. In 2009, it launched a new branding initiative throughout the Asia Pacific region to communicate its new identity and to transition branding in certain markets that have historically used the AIG brand.

BUSINESS

COMPETITIVE STRENGTHS

The Asia Pacific life insurance market is one of the largest in the world. As a leading life insurer in the Asia Pacific region with a deep knowledge of the region, market leadership and scale, extensive distribution and product marketing expertise and financial strengths, the AIA Group believes that it is well positioned to take advantage of this market's potential future growth.

The AIA Group's competitive strengths include:

Deep and historic roots in the Asia Pacific region.

The AIA Group

traces its roots in the Asia Pacific region back more than 90 years. The AIA Group was among the first insurers to establish operations in many of its Key Geographical Markets and in certain cases played a role in the development of the life insurance industry in these markets. In Hong Kong, Singapore, Thailand and Malaysia, the AIA Group has sold life insurance products to its customers since the 1930's. It was also the first licensed foreign life insurer to establish operations in the PRC. The AIA Group's early entry into many of its geographical markets has given it a historic advantage in establishing a network of almost entirely wholly-owned businesses in a region in which most other multi-national insurance companies operate via joint ventures and partnerships with domestic companies.

The AIA Group believes that its long history of serving customers in the Asia Pacific region gives it an in-depth understanding of its geographical markets as they have evolved which has enabled it to leverage lessons learned decades ago in certain markets to grow its business across other developing markets. In addition, the experience that the AIA Group has gained and proprietary data that it has gathered are valuable tools for the AIA Group in developing products that the AIA Group believes remain profitable under many economic and market scenarios.

Through the years, the AIA Group has served successive generations of customers and offered financial security through various crises in the Asia Pacific region. The AIA Group has grown to become a household name with high brand recognition in most of its geographical markets. The AIA Group's strong reputation in these markets has helped it build long-term relationships with its customers and its tied agents. In some cases, the AIA Group's agents have worked with it for most of their careers - sometimes passing the business relationship down to the next generation.

A broad footprint and market leadership across the Asia Pacific region.

Within the Asia Pacific region, the AIA Group has the broadest geographic footprint of any life insurer, with a network stretching across 15 geographical markets. As of

30 November 2009

, the AIA Group had more than 320,000 agents and approximately 23,500 employees serving the holders of its more than 23 million in-force policies and its more than 10 million participating members of its clients for group life, medical, credit life coverage and pension products.

The AIA Group was a market leader in the Asia Pacific region based on life insurance premiums in 2008 and held number one positions in six of its fifteen geographical markets. It was also the largest foreign life insurer in China in terms of life insurance premiums in 2008. The AIA Group's leadership positions throughout the region are evidence of its ability to successfully implement its customer-centric business model across varied geographical markets that are at different stages of development.

The AIA Group believes the scale and efficiencies of its operations at the regional level, and in many of its geographical markets, gives it a competitive advantage in pricing its products and investing in strategic initiatives, such as infrastructure and information technology.

The following table shows the AIA Group's market position and market share in terms of life insurance premiums in each of its geographical markets in 2008 unless otherwise indicated:

An extensive tied agency network and an expanding multi-channel distribution platform.

The AIA Group

has a large, long-standing tied agency force of more than 320,000 agents (as of 30 November 2009

) that are the cornerstone of its distribution platform. For many decades, the AIA Group's agents have provided it with significant reach and access in terms of face to face customer targeting and servicing capabilities, enabling it to more effectively build and maintain long-term relationships with its customers. The AIA Group's tied agency force spans across the Asia Pacific region from developed urban centres to rural areas. The AIA Group believes that this established infrastructure and the scale of its agency force would be difficult for its competitors to replicate.

In each of Hong Kong, Singapore, and Thailand, the AIA Group's tied agency force made up more than 20 per cent. of the total agents in that market in 2008 and the AIA Group believes it has the leading agency presence in these markets based on total number of agents. Moreover, as of 1 August 2009, more than 1,300 of the AIA Group's agents were members of the Million Dollar Round Table, a global professional trade association that recognises significant sales achievements while working to develop professional and ethical sales practices.

In many of its geographical markets, the AIA Group has built and continues to expand other distribution channels to increase penetration and broaden its access to potential customers and to meet the evolving preferences of its current customers. For example, as of 30 November 2009

, the AIA Group has established more than 120 bank relationships, which give it access to its partners customers across more than 13,000 bank branches. The AIA Group has also developed its direct marketing and IFA distribution channels across the region by drawing on well-established models in some of its key markets to capitalise on emerging direct marketing and IFA opportunities.

A broad footprint and market leadership across the Asia Pacific region.

A diversified suite of products and innovative product capabilities.

The AIA Group

has a broad and diversified suite of products, ranging from traditional to investment oriented products, that are designed to meet its customer's needs at different stages of their lives. The AIA Group believes that its diversified product suite positions it well to capture shifting demand across its geographical markets and cater to differences in such markets due to the varying stages of development of the life insurance industry. Throughout the AIA Group's long history in Asia Pacific, it has acquired experience and know-how that enables it to innovate and develop insurance products and services across all classes of consumers, from the mass market to high net worth individuals across diverse geographical markets. The AIA Group strives to find and react quickly to market trends and to be market leaders with differentiated products that target strong business opportunities. The AIA Group believes that its product portfolio management capabilities help it meet customer needs and reaffirm its position as a customer-centric organisation. For example, the AIA Group continues its focus on developing Takaful and Shariah-compliant products and services by actively pursuing Takaful opportunities in the region.

The AIA Group believes that it is a market leader in terms of product development and that its strong product capabilities are based on a number of factors, including:

- centralised regional infrastructure supported by local business know-how;

- disciplined underwriting standards and extensive experience data accumulated over a long history in the Asia Pacific region;

- a rigorous product development process to ensure product features meet risk controls and are focused on long-term profitability; and

- an ability to enhance profitability via product mix optimisation and packaging.

Stable profitability and financial strength derived from a diversified base of geographical markets and products.

The AIA Group has a track record of stable and profitable growth, which it considers is evidence of the success of its business model and market leadership. The AIA Group's extensive book of in-force business has created a stable profit base, with high renewal premiums (84.1 per cent. of the AIA Group's TWPI in FY 2009 consisted of renewal premiums). In FY 2009 the AIA Group had an operating profit of USD1.8 billion and an operating margin of 15.8 per cent.

The AIA Group derives its income from a diverse range of sources across its geographical markets, which it believes puts it in a strong position to maintain its financial strength and profitability, as it is not reliant on a single line of business or geographical market. Three of the AIA Group's Key Markets, Hong Kong, Singapore and Thailand, each generated more than USD350 million of operating income in FY 2009, and Malaysia and its Other Markets, produced USD150 million and USD191 million, respectively. At the same time, no more than 25 per cent. of TWPI in FY 2009 was derived from any one geographical market.

In addition, the AIA Group has a strong solvency position on both a regional and individual geographical market basis. As of

31 November 2009

, it had capital significantly in excess of its requirements under relevant Hong Kong insurance regulatory guidance and it complies with relevant capital adequacy requirements in each of its geographical markets.

Experienced management driving new and innovative business initiatives.

The AIA Group's

experienced management team includes professionals with substantial experience in the Asia Pacific life insurance and financial services industries. The AIA Group believes that the breadth and depth of experience of its management is a significant component in the success of its operating and financial performance. In addition to its management strength at the group level, local operating units have senior management teams that are highly experienced and well-established in their markets.

Since 2007, the AIA Group's group and local management teams have developed a comprehensive growth strategy that the AIA Group has branded the "AIA FastForward" plan. This plan is intended to leverage the collective knowledge of the AIA Group's senior management's industry experience. The AIA Group believes that its management team will be able to develop and execute its customer-centric business strategies effectively, while quickly responding to changes in its business environment.

PRODUCTS

To serve the constantly evolving needs of its customers, the AIA Group has developed and continues to expand a broad, diversified product suite that is designed to respond to its customer's needs at each stage of their lives. The AIA Group's product development process is rigorous, and the AIA Group typically develops and launches numerous new products across its multi-channel distribution platform annually.

The AIA Group believes that its long history in the Asia Pacific region, broad product suite and product development know-how allows it to:

- respond swiftly and cater products to changing customer preferences;

- adapt quickly to changing market environments; and

- capture opportunities in different market and economic cycles.

Product Strategy and Development

The mission statement of the AIA Group's product strategy and development group is: "To proactively provide tailor-made solutions and expert knowledge-based support to our businesses in the development and marketing of innovative and relevant products that add real value for customers." A key element of the AIA Group's product development strategy is to provide relevant product solutions that meet its clients' evolving insurance, protection, savings, investment and retirement needs. In addition, the AIA Group varies its product offerings by geographical market in order to respond to both their varying stages of economic and regulatory development and specific market trends.

The AIA Group head office oversees a product development group consisting of three distinct teams: strategic marketing; customer value management; and product management, each of which plays a key role in creating products. The AIA Group head office is increasingly utilising sophisticated consumer research and analysis tools to identify trends and fill new product niches.

The AIA Group believes that its long track record and extensive experience give it a competitive advantage when pricing its products in many of its geographical markets. In particular, the AIA Group has an extensive proprietary information database accumulated over its long history in the Asia Pacific region. In addition, the AIA Group rigorously tests its products to ensure product features meet risk controls. The pricing of all products is overseen by the actuarial group which has established specific criteria that ensure that all new products are carefully vetted for profitability, capital efficiency and sustainability (i.e., that they remain profitable under many economic and market scenarios). Existing products are also reviewed annually to ensure that they continue to meet the AIA Group's profitability and capital efficiency requirements.

One of the goals of the product development process is to be a market leader with differentiated products as demonstrated by the following recent new products:

- In February 2009, the AIA Group was the first life insurance company to launch an investment-linked product in Thailand to address customers' growing need for wealth accumulation solutions that were not being fully met by traditional endowment products. The AIA Group was able to leverage its group level investment-linked product development expertise and customise the product for the Thai market.

In July 2009, the AIA Group was one of the first insurers in Hong Kong to launch an innovative product that embedded critical illness benefits into a limited pay participating whole life plan. The AIA Group determined that customers were demanding even more protection elements as part of their overall financial planning needs due to the global economic downturn and therefore decided to integrate its critical illness benefits into Executive Life, its existing successful regular savings plan.

Ordinary Individual Life Insurance

The AIA Group offers a wide variety of life insurance products for individuals in four principal categories: term life; traditional basic participating; traditional basic non-participating; and universal life products. These products continue to be the major contributor to the AIA Group's TWPI, accounting for 63.6 per cent., 61.0 per cent. and 62.6 per cent. in FY 2007, FY 2008 and FY 2009, respectively..

Term Life

Term life insurance provides life insurance protection for a defined period of time. The sum assured under the policy is paid to the beneficiary if death occurs during the period of coverage.

Traditional Basic Participating Life Insurance

Participating policies are contracts of insurance where the policyholders have a contractual right to receive additional benefits based on investment return and/or other factors, as a supplement to any guaranteed benefits. In some markets, participating business is written in a participating fund that is distinct from the other assets of the insurer. In these markets, the allocation of benefits to participating policyholders from the assets held in the distinct participating fund is typically subject to minimum levels or other mechanisms established by applicable regulation. In markets where participating business is not written in a distinct fund, allocations to participating policyholders are based, at the insurer's discretion, on the investment performance of a group of assets or contracts and other factors. Whether participating policies are written in a distinct participating fund largely depends on local practice and regulation. The extent of policy participation may change over time.

Traditional Basic Non-Participating Life Insurance Traditional basic non-participating life insurance products are contracts of insurance where the policyholder has a guaranteed right to the benefit, which is not at the contractual discretion of the insurer.

Universal Life Products

Universal life products are insurance products where the customer pays flexible premiums that are accumulated in an account and are credited with interest (at a rate either set by the insurer or reflecting returns on a pool of assets). The customer may vary the death benefit and the contract may permit the customer to withdraw the account balance, typically subject to a surrender charge.

Investment-Linked Products

Investment-linked products, including variable universal life products, are insurance products where the surrender value of the policy is linked to the value of underlying investments (such as collective investment schemes, internal investment pools or other property) or fluctuations in the value of underlying investment or indices. Investment risk associated with the product is usually borne by the policyholder. Insurance coverage, investment and administration services are provided for which the charges are deducted from the investment fund assets. Benefits payable will depend on the price of the units prevailing at the time of surrender, death or the maturity of the policy, subject to surrender charges. Investment-linked products are presented together with pension products for purposes of disclosure of financial information.

Accident & Health

offers A&H and personal accident insurance products, which provide morbidity or sickness benefits and include health, disability, critical illness and accident cover across its multi-channel distribution platform. A&H insurance products are sold both as standalone policies and as riders that can be attached to the AIA Group's life insurance products. A&H riders are presented together with ordinary individual life insurance products for purposes of disclosure of financial information.

The AIA Group believes that it is well-positioned to benefit from expected growth in this market as healthcare costs are shifted from governments to citizens in certain markets. These products are key drivers of the AIA Group's profitability due to: its extensive claims database; continuous experience tracking; proactive remedial actions; and economies of scale in operations.. The AIA Group believes that A&H insurance products are less susceptible to changes in the investment environment as compared to investment-linked products and traditional life insurance products because in many of its markets these products are increasingly being purchased by individuals to cover gaps in government healthcare coverage.

Group Insurance

insurance business is operated through the Group Corporate Solutions division ("AIA GCS"), a leading employee benefits, credit insurance and pension product and service provider in the Asia Pacific region, which serves nearly 100,000 corporate clients with more than 10 million participating members as of 30 November 2009

. The AIA Group believes that it is the leader in the Asia Pacific region for these services and that it occupied the leading position in terms of market share of life insurance premiums in 2008 in Hong Kong (17.9 per cent.), Thailand (26.2 per cent.), Australia (20.5 per cent.) and Singapore (32 per cent.) and a top three position in the majority of its geographical markets as measured by life insurance premiums. The AIA Group distributes these products in all 15 of its geographical markets, generally by leveraging off its multi-channel distribution network. The AIA Group's most important geographical markets for these products and services are Australia, Hong Kong, Malaysia, Singapore and Thailand.

The AIA Group's regional team works closely with its local operating units to provide comprehensive employee benefits and pension solutions to corporations of all sizes, ranging from small- and medium-sized local enterprises to multinational companies. AIA GCS also provides insurance solutions to banks, financial institutions and other groups to cover their customers' or members' needs.

One of the AIA Group's key strategies in this area is to leverage off its access to its participating members to distribute additional individual life insurance and A&H insurance products that are tailored to improve the coverage provided by their employers. The AIA Group is increasing its agents' training on AIA GCS products to encourage greater sales, drive agency force productivity and explore alternative distribution models. For example, it is working to increase IFA sales of corporate products to smaller and medium-sized local enterprises.

Group insurance, which is typically marketed to corporations, government entities and associations, has been a driver of both the AIA Group's product volume and profitability growth. Group insurance coverage is typically arranged by employers for employees of corporate or government entities. The employers typically pay premiums for basic policies, such as group term life and group medical coverage. Group credit life insurance products typically provide life insurance protection to the customers (borrowers) of financial lending institutions. The premium is usually built into the cost of the loans, which may cover mortgages, credit cards and auto loans. The AIA Group has a significant in-force portfolio of group insurance policies with nearly 60,000 corporate policyholders and approximately six million insured employees/members for group life insurance products, as well as nearly 1,500 corporate policyholders and more than 2.5 million insured members for group credit life insurance products as of 31 August 2009. In addition, the AIA Group believes that Korea, China and Vietnam represent largely untapped markets for this type of insurance product.

Corporate Pension Products

The AIA Group's corporate pension products business is mainly operated by AIA Pension and Trustee Co. Ltd., a British Virgin Islands company ("AIA-PT") and American International Assurance Company (Trustee) Limited, a Hong Kong company ("AIA-T"). AIA-PT and AIA-T serve as trustees of a multiinvestment manager platform offering more than 50 constituent funds under Hong Kong's ORSO with respect to voluntary corporate pensions and MPFSO with respect to defined contribution plans. These products are distributed across a wide range of distribution channels. AIA Pension also acts as the trustee of other collective investment schemes.

Since 2000, there has been a substantial increase in the AIA Group's pension business due to the Hong Kong government requiring mandatory provident funds for employees. As of 30 June 2009, AIA Pension has a combined USD5.1 billion of assets under management for its pension management business that covers more than 700,000 members of its approximately 37,000 ORSO and MPFSO clients in Hong Kong. In recent years, prevailing market conditions have provided opportunity for the AIA Group to promote pension products to corporate institutions in China, India, Indonesia, Macau and Thailand. The AIA Group utilises mainly tied agency, brokerage and direct marketing channels to distribute pension products and its operations are supported by its proprietary Regional Pensions Administration System. Assets under management for these businesses has increased steadily to more than USD6 billion from more than 38,000 sponsoring employers covering over 1.1 million employees as of 31 August 2009. The AIA Group uses a mixture of in-house managed funds and third party managed funds with most products being defined contribution in nature.

Other Products

Annuity Products

The AIA Group's annuities products are savings products where the accumulated amount can be paid out to the customer in a variety of income streams. The purpose of these products is to fund retirement. The AIA Group has two main types of annuities products: a single premium product where a customer can invest money in a deferred annuity by paying a single lump sum or a flexible premium product where a customer can invest over a period of years. Customers can also purchase an immediate or income annuity with a single premium where annuity payments continue during the lifetime of the annuitant or for a fixed period of time.

General Insurance (Personal Lines) Products

The AIA Group's personal lines insurance business is comprised of private motor insurance, buildings and household contents insurance, accident and health insurance, pet insurance, travel insurance and insurance for domestic helpers. It underwrites selected personal lines insurance in Hong Kong, Singapore and Malaysia. Key products include travel, home contents, private motor, domestic helper and personal liability insurance.

DISTRIBUTION

The AIA Group distributes its broad range of products through all major distribution channels, including tied agents, banks, direct marketing, IFAs and brokers. It believes that its experience with a broad range of distribution models across many geographical markets at different stages of economic development positions it well to respond to trends and effectively transfer successful distribution strategies across markets.

Since 1931, the AIA Group has been developing a tied agency force that spans across the Asia Pacific region, from developed urban centres to rural areas. As of 30 November 2009

, its tied agency force consisted of more than 320,000 agents.

The AIA Group is expanding its other distribution channels to further extend its exposure and reach, while anticipating the needs of its customers and evolving geographical markets. In particular, it strives to become a preferred partner of banks and financial service providers across the Asia Pacific region. As of 30 November 2009

, it has more than 120 relationships with banks and financial institutions throughout the region and utilises a full range of partnership models to constantly evolve its bancassurance models to meet specific market needs and expand the breadth of channels through which it reaches its customers.

In a number of its markets, the AIA Group has had significant success with sophisticated direct marketing distribution such as database marketing to further expand its distribution platform. In addition, its products are also increasingly sold on a non-exclusive basis by IFAs and brokers, particularly in more developed markets such as Hong Kong, Singapore and Australia.

Agency Channel

believes that it has one of the strongest tied agency franchises in the Asia Pacific region, with its agents accounting for more than 20 per cent. of the total tied agency force in Hong Kong, Singapore and Thailand in 2008. While tied agents distribute almost all of the AIA Group's insurance products, they are a preferred distribution channel for many of its more complex, and generally more profitable, insurance products, such as its universal life products. In addition, the AIA Group believes the scale and breadth of penetration of its agency channel results in cost efficiencies which may be difficult for its competitors to replicate, particularly in developed markets. The tied agents are not employees of AIA. The AIA Group believes that its contracts with its tied agents provide terms and compensation structures that are customary and competitive for such contracts in its business. For instance, the number of new agents increased to approximately 82,234 in the second half of FY 2009 from approximately 61,532 in the first half of FY 2009 which the AIA Group believes is evidence of the attractiveness of its compensation schemes. The contracts with our tied agents are reviewed by its legal and compliance departments to ensure that they comply in all material respects with the requirements of applicable law.

The tied nature of its agency model and its role in managing, training and motivating the agency force provide the AIA Group with significant control over the distribution channel. This also permits the AIA Group to (i) drive the product strategy and development process to meet specific customer segments and demands; (ii) anticipate the needs of its customers and potential new customers; and (iii) create new products and disseminate best practices based on these needs.

The AIA Group believes that it has a productive agency force. Its first year premium per Active Agent (i.e., an agent who sells at least one life insurance product per month) for both FY 2008 and 2009 was more than USD22,000 per year, or USD1,800 per month, across its 15 geographical markets. Each Active Agent on average sold more than 42 life insurance products per year during FY 2008 and 2009. The persistency of insurance products sold through AIA's tied agency force for FY 2009 ranged from 80 per cent. in most of its markets to around 95 per cent. in some developed markets. The number of new agent leaders increased to approximately 10,064 in the second half of FY 2009 from approximately 5,417 in the first half of FY 2009. In 2009, more than 1,300 of the AIA Group's tied agents were rewarded for their productivity by membership in the MDRT, a global trade association that recognises significant sales achievements and works to develop professional and ethical sales practices. MDRT membership is an important measure of success in the life insurance industry. Fewer than 1 per cent. of life insurance agents industry-wide are registered MDRT members.

The following table shows the approximate size of the AIA Group's tied agency force in each of its Key Geographical Markets and its Other Geographical Markets as of 30 November 2009:

Agency Size

Singapore ⁽²⁾

Total
.....

- (1) Amount includes Macau
- (2) Amount includes Brunei
- (3) Amount includes all of the approximately 140,400 agents that are part of the agency force of TATA AIG Life Insurance Company Limited

The AIA Group believes that it was among the first life insurers operating in the Asia Pacific region to pioneer the tied agency model, which is one of the most important legacies of its long-standing roots in the Asia Pacific region. Among other things, the AIA Group believes that the history and track record of its agency network foster stability and agent retention, particularly among its agency leaders. Approximately 22 per cent. of its agency leaders have been AIA Limited agents for more than 10 years while approximately 7.2 per cent. of its total tied agency force (which includes its agency leaders) have been AIA Group agents for more than 10 years as of 31 January 2010. In its Key Geographical Markets, approximately 40.8 per cent. of its agency leaders and approximately 15.1 per cent. of its total tied agency force have been AIA Limited agents for more than 10 years as of 31 January 2010. In some of the AIA Group's markets, tied agents have passed their agency businesses on to succeeding generations. The AIA Group believes the stability of its agency force has enabled its agents to develop long-term relationships with its customers that are strengthened by face to face interaction and the convenience of the 24 hours a day, seven days a week service that many of AIA's agents provide.

Agency Management

The AIA Group has established a comprehensive agency training, compliance and compensation structure to ensure that its tied agency force operates effectively. The AIA Group's tied agency force is led by a chief agency officer and a team of directors of agencies and agency executives. In each local operating unit, it has a team of employees dedicated to optimising its agency force, which is structured as a hierarchy in which high achievers can advance to supervise and manage other agents. Its agency executives supervise the agency leaders who, in turn, supervise the tied agents. As of 30 November 2009, it had approximately 850 agent trainers dedicated to the training of its tied agency force. Its agency staff monitor and audit the activities of its tied agency force. In order to supervise and motivate its agents, each local agency team has a wide range of responsibilities, including:

- . developing and implementing strategic plans for agency expansion;
- . providing advice to agency leaders on how to better manage their agencies;
- . working with AIA group agency to develop annual strategic plans and productivity goals;
- . working with development teams to create agency incentive contests and award programs; and
- . overseeing training and development programs for various levels of agents.

The AIA Group also finds that its close relationship with its agents provides important feedback that assists it in meeting its customers' needs. For example, its agents employ its proprietary "Financial Health Check" questionnaire for customers, which the AIA Group considers a valuable tool for identifying gaps in its customers' insurance coverage and other specific needs that it can match with one of its products or use to develop new products.

The AIA Group has developed an agency business strategy reflecting the varying nature of the markets in which it operates. In more developed markets, such as Hong Kong and Singapore, it is focusing on greater market and agent segmentation to better serve the high net worth population, improving agent compensation schemes to incentivise sales of more profitable products and developing a "needs-based" selling approach. In addition, it has taken steps to rationalise less productive agents in Hong Kong and Singapore. In faster growing markets, such as China, the priority is to expand the agency force by aligning manager compensation with recruiting success.

Compensation

The compensation system for tied agents closely aligns their incentives with the AIA Group's key objectives, such as sales of more profitable products, production and policy persistency. The core components of the agency compensation scheme are commissions, production bonuses and persistency bonuses. Reflecting the wide variety of operating environments in the Asia Pacific region, the specific terms and conditions regarding agent compensation vary from market to market. For example, in many of the markets that the AIA Group has entered relatively recently, compensation is designed to drive agent recruitment and growth of the agency force, while arrangements in established markets place greater emphasis on sales of more complex and profitable products. The AIA Group constantly reviews its compensation arrangements in light of industry developments and has a well-defined internal approval process for any modifications to its compensation schemes.

The AIA Group also intends to implement one or more long-term incentive arrangements for its agency force. The purpose of these long-term incentive arrangements is intended to further align the incentives of the agents with its key objectives. In addition, the long-term incentive arrangements will contribute towards the retention of high performing agents and generating a long-term profitable relationship between the AIA Group and its leading agents.

Training and Development

To enhance agent productivity and retention, the AIA Group has developed a specialised training program designed for new agents, experienced agents, new agency leaders and experienced agency leaders. At all levels, training focuses on compliance with local licensing requirements and the AIA Group's conduct guidelines, as well as productivity and profitability, with an emphasis on understanding the AIA Group's product suite so as to permit its agents to respond to customer needs with the relevant product solutions.

The AIA Group employs a staff of approximately 850 dedicated agency trainers across the Asia Pacific region to ensure that its agents receive robust training.

Bancassurance Channel

The AIA Group

has focused on extending its presence in bancassurance, through which it distributes all categories of its insurance products and which is an increasingly important distribution channel for its ordinary life and A&H insurance products. As of

30 November 2009

, it had more than 120 bancassurance relationships, which range from exclusive agreements, which generally have a term of five years or more, to open architecture agreements. Open architecture agreements are nonexclusive and typically allow the AIA Group's partners to sell the insurance products of two to four insurance companies and have open-ended or one-year renewable terms. The AIA Group's bancassurance partners have a network of over 13,000 bank branches, which the AIA Group believes provide it with an opportunity to extend its reach and access their extensive customer base. In FY 2008, it entered into 19 new bank relationships, and in FY 2009, it added another 10 relationships, including an exclusive strategic joint venture in the Philippines in which Philamlife acquired a 51 per cent. stake in Ayala Life Insurance, Inc. ("Ayala Life"), the life insurance subsidiary of the Bank of the Philippine Islands ("BPI"), which is the largest bank in the Philippines in terms of capital value as of

, and distribution network with more than 800 branches.

Bancassurance is particularly attractive because it provides immediate access to the AIA Group's partners' client base and branch infrastructure, and extends its market reach and exposure. Bancassurance distribution is also responsive to the evolving needs of those of its customers who prefer a single point of entry for banking, insurance and other financial services.

The AIA Group continues to pursue additional bancassurance opportunities and believes that it is an attractive partner for banks and financial institutions because of a number of unique attributes:

- . it is open to and has significant experience with a wide range of bancassurance models that can be customised to meet its partner's needs from joint ventures and strategic alliances to non-exclusive distribution relationships for the supply of specific products or services;

- . the AIA brand is widely recognised in most of its markets;

- . it has a broad product offering tailored to the customer segment specific to its partners and related expertise resulting from its long track record in the region;

- . its infrastructure and scale permit it to offer a greater range of services and support than most of its competitors; and

- . its extensive agency force creates significant cross-selling opportunities for credit cards and other bank services.

Direct Marketing Channel

Direct marketing is an increasingly important distribution channel for the AIA Group and has become a key driver of its growth. The AIA Group employs direct marketing teams in Taiwan for both direct-to-consumer sales and for sponsor arrangements where it markets products to the customers of consumer lending partners. In Korea, the AIA Group utilises hybrid marketing, a distribution channel that relies on a phased sales approach consisting of telephone marketing followed by face-to-face meetings. It typically establishes sponsor partnerships on a market-by-market basis. The AIA Group's approach to direct marketing is diverse, leveraging several sub-channels such as: broad media advertising; database marketing; outbound calling of affinity customers; and direct marketing agencies, which are external call centres that distribute its products. The AIA Group is developing additional direct marketing centres in Thailand, Australia and Indonesia, where it believes the regulatory and consumer environment is also well-suited to the channel. In Thailand, it signed agreements with five new sponsor partners in 2008 and 2009. These agreements provide it with access to 2 million potential customers. It also launched a broad marketing campaign in the fourth quarter of 2008 for a guaranteed issue whole life product for senior citizens that has generated over 400,000 in-bound calls as of 31 January 2010. In Indonesia, it set up a call centre in 2008 and extended many of its bancassurance relationships to include a direct marketing component in 2009.

IFA/Brokerage Channel

The AIA Group

primarily utilises IFA/brokerage distribution channels in Hong Kong, Singapore and Australia. As of 30 November 2009, it had approximately 400 active relationships (i.e., the business partner regularly submits new business to the AIA Group) with business partners in this channel, including relationships with approximately 270 broker-dealerships in Australia, 123 IFAs in Hong Kong and 8 financial advisors in Singapore. Arrangements entered into between the AIA Group and its IFA/brokerage partners are typically non-exclusive and include commission-based payment terms. As of 30 November 2009, the average duration of AIA's IFA/brokerage relationships in Hong Kong, Australia and Singapore was approximately 10.6, 5.5 and 2.5 years, respectively.

The AIA Group expects IFA/brokerage distribution to become increasingly important in its more developed markets, as sophisticated customers, particularly high net worth individuals, seek independent advice from advisers. To meet this demand, it has established a dedicated team of channel specialists at the AIA Group level to drive its "partnership model" to develop sustainable long-term and productive relationships in its existing markets. The establishment of a robust platform will also best position it to expand this channel presence into new markets as prevailing conditions and regulations allow.

The AIA Group's approach is based upon the use of a dedicated distribution model, executed by local specialists under disciplined sales activity management monitored by proprietary software. This enables it not only to track sales but to assist in developing and training its dedicated personnel. The partnership model value proposition is focused on a customer-centred product solution including concierge sales support and underwriting service, sales and product training as well as access to information via dedicated hotline and on-line access, all of which are aimed at deepening working relationships and assisting intermediaries to grow their business in partnership with AIA Limited.

PRIMARY OPERATING UNITS

has local operating units in 15 geographical markets which gives it a broad geographic footprint in the Asia Pacific region and access to both high growth emerging markets and more developed markets like Hong Kong, Singapore and Malaysia. The AIA Group considers Hong Kong, Korea, Thailand, Singapore, China and Malaysia to be its Key Geographical Markets. Local operating units in the Philippines, Australia, Indonesia, Vietnam, Taiwan, New Zealand, India, Macau and Brunei are referred to below as Other Geographical Markets.

The AIA Group occupied the leading position in Thailand's life insurance market with a reported 37.5 per cent. market share of total premiums in 2008, based on data published by the Thai Life Assurance Association. This distribution channel has historically accounted for a high proportion of AIA Thailand's business. In addition, AIA Thailand's approximately 7 bancassurance relationships gives it access to more than 1,300 bank branches and an estimated six million potential customers. AIA Thailand also has approximately 8 direct marketing relationships. Within the direct marketing channel, the AIA Group believes AIA Thailand is a market leader in direct response distribution. Direct response distribution does not rely on customer databases, but instead involves the distribution of products to customers who respond to AIA Group newspaper, television and similar advertisements.

AIA Thailand is focused on the following key strategies:

- improve agency force productivity through agency segmentation, improved customer service, cross-selling and maturing policy recapture programs, leveraging AIA Thailand's extensive customer database and credible experience data as well as through the implementation of a specialized program aimed at cultivating a new generation of agents;

AIA Singapore served more than 900,000 individual customers as of 30 November 2009, which represents approximately 23 per cent. of Singapore's total population.

AIA Takaful International Bhd. was then formed to focus on foreign currency denominated Takaful insurance and re-Takaful business. INVESTMENTS

Overview

The carrying value of the AIA Group's total investment portfolio was USD76 billion as of

30 November 2009

, of which policyholder and shareholder investments (i.e., excluding investment-linked investments) ("Policyholder and Shareholder Investments") represented 82 per cent. and investments related to investment-linked and pension business ("Investment-linked Investments") represented 18 per cent. of the AIA Group's total investment portfolio. Investment return associated with investment-linked, including pension products, is generally passed through to policyholders. The AIA Group's investments and investment management functions are key aspects of the AIA Group's business and can create significant value for the AIA Group's customers and shareholders. The AIA Group's financial strength and ability to profitably underwrite insurance business depends significantly on the quality and performance of its investment portfolios. The AIA Group invests the premiums and other income generated from its insurance business with an objective of meeting the future liabilities associated with the insurance products that it underwrites, as well as to generate desired return for its business. The AIA Group's success in investment management contributes to the competitiveness of its products, its financial strength and business reputation.

The AIA Group's long-standing culture of disciplined investing, active management of investments and risk management have enabled it to maintain financial stability through many varied business and economic cycles, including the global economic downturn. The AIA Group believes that it has considerable investment expertise to manage its portfolios across its geographical markets. As significant volatility and uncertainty pervaded the markets in recent years, the AIA Group preserved its capital and the value of its investments by reducing its exposure to riskier assets and increasing its fixed income investment allocation and cash balances. The AIA Group believes that the scale of its investment portfolio well positioned it to pursue various investment strategies and asset allocations while maintaining flexibility to manage its portfolio prudently and take measured risks to increase its portfolio returns.

Investment Objectives and Processes

Policyholder and Shareholder Investments

For the AIA Group's Policyholder and Shareholder Investments, the primary investment principle is to achieve optimal levels of risk-adjusted return for policyholders and shareholders over the long-term while:

(i) preserving capital; (ii) maintaining adequate solvency and liquidity levels; (iii) remaining in line with risk management and asset-liability management objectives; and (iv) ensuring full compliance with applicable regulations and internal policies. The AIA Group's investment objective is to produce stable and consistent income and returns, mainly through investments in long duration fixed income instruments. The AIA Group also invests a portion of its portfolio in other asset classes, such as public equities, private equities and real estate, to generate higher returns.

To meet these objectives, the AIA Group has established a structured investment management framework including: (i) a liability-driven strategic asset allocation ("SAA") benchmark designed to match its long-term liability requirements (i.e., one to five year horizon); (ii) a market-driven tactical asset allocation ("TAA") overlay designed to reduce risk and benefit from market opportunities in the near term; and (iii) a combination of internal and external investment management for individual asset class management designed to create value from optimising the mix of managers.

Investment Framework

The AIA Group has established an investment framework to ensure that its investments are properly authorised, monitored and managed. The investment committees of the local operating units report both to a group investment committee and their respective boards of directors and/or executive committees. The investment committees and the AIA Group's investment officers determine the AIA Group's investment strategy, including the SAA target and TAA band for each local operating unit, in conjunction with their responsibility of maintaining and monitoring the management of the assets included in Policyholder and Shareholder Investments. These SAA targets and TAA bands also require the approval of the AIA Group's ALM Committee and relevant asset-liability management committees.

The SAA sets long-term asset allocation targets, while the TAA defines the range around such targets in response to financial market conditions. Both the SAA target and the TAA band are designed with consideration given to liability characteristics, long-term investment return expectations, financial market volatilities and changes in correlations of asset classes, capital management consideration and regulations at both group and local levels, local financial market conditions, as well as macroeconomic factors.

At the local operating units, investment transactions are carried out by its investment teams in accordance with the objectives established by the SAA and TAA. The investment committee of each local operating unit reviews and, to the extent within its authority, approves investment transactions.

Investment Activities Tailored to the AIA Group's Geographical Markets

The AIA Group's investments are managed at both the group level and local operating unit level, with investment strategies tailored to the business needs of, and regulatory requirements applicable to, each operating unit. The AIA Group's operating units sell varying mixes of insurance products, which give rise to varying liability profiles across the operating units. In addition, the AIA Group's local operating units are subject to varying regulations governing their investments, including regulations requiring them to invest a portion of their premiums in on-shore local investments. In view of these regulations, the AIA Group's strategies in most of its geographical markets focus on investing in such markets, which also tend to provide better asset-liability management by mitigating exposure to foreign exchange rate fluctuations.

The composition of the AIA Group's insurance policies sold in each geographical market also impacts the its investment strategy. For example, with respect to participating policies issued in Singapore, Malaysia and China, the AIA Group generally holds a higher portion of equities and alternative investments in order to increase potential returns, the risk profile of which is consistent with policyholder expectation.

Investment-linked Investments

Investment-linked products are insurance products where the surrender value of the policy is linked to the value of underlying investments (collective investment schemes, internal investment pools or other investment instruments). Investment return associated with the product is usually passed through to the policyholder. The AIA Group's pension business predominantly consists of employer-sponsored defined-contribution arrangements. Employers use the AIA Group as their service provider and either select specific funds for investment or allow participating employees to choose their funds. The AIA Group's pension business provides detailed fund analysis, risk profiling and prevailing market condition outlooks from chosen third party fund managers.

Investment Management

The AIA Group

manages its investment portfolio using a combination of internal and external managers. The AIA Group's Policyholder and Shareholder Investments are primarily managed internally, while Investment-linked Investments are primarily managed by third parties.

To ensure the quality of third party funds underlying the AIA Group's investment-linked products, the AIA Group has in place a set of quantitative and qualitative criteria that enables it to select as well as monitor the underlying investment fund on an ongoing basis. Other geographical markets where the AIA Group's investment-linked products are sold may adopt a different selection and monitoring framework due to specific local regulatory requirements and varied degree of product maturity.

The AIA Group's pension platform offers a wide range of funds managed by third parties where valuations are tied to the price of the unit of the underlying fund. The selection of asset management companies and their underlying funds is subject to a rigorous selection process and is reviewed in comparison to established benchmarks and relevant peer groups. The AIA Group puts underperforming funds on a closely monitored watch list and replaces those that do not demonstrate clear signs of improvement.

Investment Portfolio

Overview

The AIA Group manages its financial investments in two distinct categories: Investment-linked Investments and Policyholder and Shareholder Investments. The investment risk in respect of Investment-linked Investments is generally borne by customers. Furthermore, investment-linked contract holders are responsible for allocation of their policy values amongst investment options offered by the AIA Group. Policyholder and Shareholder Investments include all financial investments other than Investment-linked Investments. The investment risk in respect of Policyholder and Shareholder Investments is partially or wholly borne by the AIA Group.

The AIA Group's investment portfolio consists of two principal asset classes: (i) fixed income securities and (ii) equity securities and alternative investments. The following table sets forth the unaudited carrying value of the AIA Group's principal asset classes in its investment portfolio as of the dates indicated.
