OFFICE DEPOT SAFE HARBOR STATEMENT

This communication may contain forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 concerning Office Depot, the merger and other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, Office Depot's long-term credit rating and its revenues and operating earnings. These statements or disclosures may discuss goals, intentions and expectations as to future trends, plans, events, results of operations or financial condition, or state other information relating to Office Depot, based on current beliefs of management as well as assumptions made by, and information currently available to, management. Forward-looking statements generally will be accompanied by words such as anticipate, believe, plan, could, estimate, expect, forecast, guidance, intend, may, possible, potential, similar words, phrases or expressions. These forward-looking statements are subject to various risks and uncertainties, many of which are outside of Office Depot's control. Therefore, investors and shareholders should not place undue reliance on such statements. Factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those in the forward-looking statements include adverse regulatory decisions; failure to satisfy other closing conditions with respect to the merger; the risks that the new businesses will not be integrated successfully or that Office Depot will not realize estimated cost savings and synergies; Office Depot's ability to maintain its current long-term credit rating; unanticipated changes in the markets for its business segments; unanticipated downturns in business relationships with customers or their purchases from Office Depot; competitive pressures on Office Depot's sales and pricing; increases in the cost of material, energy and other production costs, or unexpected costs that cannot be recouped in product pricing; the introduction of competing technologies; unexpected technical or marketing difficulties; unexpected claims, charges, litigation or dispute resolutions; new laws and governmental regulations. The foregoing list of factors is not exhaustive. Investors and shareholders should carefully consider the foregoing factors and the other risks and uncertainties that affect Office Depot's business described in its Annual Report on Form 10-K, Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q, Current Reports on Form 8-K and other documents filed from time to time with the SEC. Office Depot does not assume any obligation to update these forward-looking statements.

13082 Quarterly Town Hall Focuses on Progress

NARRATOR VOICEOVER: Office Depot used its quarterly Town Hall to update associates on its plans for 2013, and progress made since announcing the merger with OfficeMax including what the company will do once an initial prospectus is approved by the Securities & Exchange Commission.

Neil Austrian, Chairman & CEO

We would then mail that prospectus proxy to all of our shareholders. (CUT TO) assuming that stays on track, we would then have a shareholder special meeting (CUT TO) to vote on the merger. OfficeMax would do the same thing.

NARRATOR VOICEOVER: If approved by shareholders, it is estimated the Federal Trade Commission will decide on the merger by the end of the year. In the meantime, both companies have named executives to lead the integration process.

Mike Newman, EVP & Chief Financial Officer

Bruce Besanko is my counterpart on the OfficeMax side terrific guy. Thinks like we do. Aggressive guy. He has the right mindset to do this.

NARRATOR VOICEOVER: And when it's done, there will be a lot for Office Depot to gain not only in the US, but Internationally with OfficeMax having operations in Australia & New Zealand.

Steve Schmidt, President, International

They're a very, very strong player there. They also own a distribution company. They also have a very strong business in Canada, which is a market that we don't have operations.

NARRATOR VOICEOVER: Meaning more opportunity for associates Office Depot wants to know better. Human Resources used this Town Hall to remind associates to complete a My Profile online questionnaire.

Michael Allison, EVP, Human Resources

Like any company, we have typically 10 to 15% turnover. And it's really important to us to give opportunities to people within our company.

NARRATOR VOICEOVER: A company that regularly gives opportunities to others through the Office Depot Foundation releasing its annual report connecting the dots between contributions and care.

Mary Wong, President, The Office Depot Foundation

39:58 By connecting the dots between Office Depot, the Office Depot Foundation, the non-profits that we work with, the schools and the agencies around the world, the Foundation helps children succeed in school and dream about their futures.

NARRATOR VOICEOVER: A future that's in retail today with the unveiling of a new handheld device connecting associates to online content and allowing in-aisle checkout.

Juan Guerrero, SVP, North American Retail

So we feel very, very good about these handhelds being put in our associates hands. (CUT TO) They have access to the data. And we see great things coming from this.

NARRATOR VOICEOVER: Just as Office Depot sees great things happening throughout its business as it continues to execute on its strategy.

Neil: So we need to have most of the people here committed to going forward as if the merger doesn't happen. Which means we need to focus on the 2013 business plan to make sure that we hit the plan and if we're fortunate enough the merger does happen, we'll come into the merger in much better shape.
