(Attach extra sheets if needed.)

Ligand Pharmaceuticals Incorporated (the Company) has determined that it is unable to file its Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q (Form 10-Q) for the quarterly period ended September 30, 2016 by November 9, 2016, the original due date for such filing, without unreasonable effort or expense. As previously disclosed, the Company is in the process of evaluating certain deferred tax assets (DTA) recorded in the third quarter of 2015. The Company is endeavoring to file its Form 10-Q within the allowable extension period pursuant to this Form 12b-25, but there can be no assurances that the Company will be able to file within the extension window.

The Company is reviewing the amount of net operating loss carryforwards recorded as a result of certain acquisitions accounted for in 2009 and 2010. As a result, the amount of DTA the Company recorded in connection with the release of its valuation allowance could be reduced by at least 10% of the $217 million DTA booked in the third quarter of 2015. The reduction, if any, would reduce the one-time DTA gain and would reduce U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) net income for that period by the same amount. The Company's balance sheet for the third quarter of 2015 and every subsequent period would reflect the reduction in DTA. The 2015 GAAP net income and earnings per share, which would be impacted by the reduction in DTA, are not available at this time. Separately, the Company is evaluating the proper reflection of the outstanding convertible note in its 2015 annual report as short- or long-term debt as of December 31, 2015. Any change to the classification of the outstanding debt would have no effect on GAAP net income or any subsequent balance sheet for any reported period.

The Company consults with third-party tax professionals for advice on its tax matters and the accounting treatment of such matters. In reviewing its prior-year accounting as part of the 2016 third quarter close process, the Company re-evaluated its accounting for income taxes with the assistance of additional third-party tax professionals and is currently determining whether its DTA accounting needs to be restated.

The third quarter 2015 GAAP net income and earnings per share will be reported in the Company's Form 10-Q for the third quarter of 2016, which will include the Company's conclusion regarding the amount and materiality of the reduction in DTA, if any. The GAAP and adjusted net income and EPS figures for the three and nine month periods ended September 30, 2016 would be unaffected by the changes, if any. The Company does not expect to file its Form 10-Q for the third quarter of 2016 until after its Audit Committee's review of these matters and management's review of the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting has been completed.

Certain statements contained in this Form 12b-25 constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Forward-looking statements are predictions based on expectations and projections about future events, and are not statements of historical fact. You can identify forward-looking statements by the use of forward-looking terminology such as plan, continue, expect, anticipate, intend, predict, project, estimate, likely, believe, might, seek, may, remain, potential, can, similar expressions, or the negative of those expressions. These forward-looking statements include the Company's beliefs or expectations relating to the Company's expectations relating to the filing of the Form 10-Q and the results of the ongoing review. Such forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties, and other factors which may cause the actual results to be materially different from any future results expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements. Such factors include a material delay in the Company's financial reporting, the possibility that one or more material weaknesses in the Company's internal control over financial reporting may be identified in connection with the ongoing review, the possibility that the ongoing review may identify other errors, which may be material, in the Company's accounting, whether investors should no longer rely upon previously issued financial statements, and the risk that the Company may need to restate its financial statements. As a result of the foregoing and other factors, no assurance can be given as to the future results, levels of activity and achievements of the Company, and neither the Company nor any person assumes responsibility for the accuracy and completeness of these statements.
