• The merger is subject to customary regulatory and shareholder approvals and is expected to close in mid-calendar year 2019. What this means to employees: • The combined company will bring together two very successful organizations with highly talented workforces and complementary cultures, including strong values and a focus on innovation and operational excellence. • Leveraging our expanded technical talent, portfolio of technologies and R&D capabilities, the combined company will offer a broader range of complete mission solutions across fast-growing franchises. Collectively, this will allow us to even better serve our customers efficiently and reliably while enhancing opportunities for innovation. • We appreciate the talent and capability of our workforce which has driven our success to date and made this merger possible, and we are confident the future is bright for employees. • As a combined company, our diverse base of employees will have more opportunities to advance across a much wider spectrum of career fields, geographic locations and mission critical programs. • Integration planning is already underway and, as we work together on this exciting transformation, we are committed to relaying relevant information clearly, transparently and in a timely manner as it becomes available. • Until closing, which is expected by mid-calendar year 2019, the two companies will continue to operate as separate businesses and it is essential we remain focused on meeting our external and internal customers' requirements and performing at the highest level. What this means to our customers: • The combination will create an agile global defense technology company with the scale, resources and highly complementary technology portfolio to provide high-value products and services across a broad range of markets even more efficiently, affordably and reliably. • Until close, the two companies will continue to operate as separate businesses and we are committed to seamless business continuity throughout the merger and integration. • We will make every effort to keep our customers informed as the transaction progresses and welcome their questions. Customer questions about the merger should be directed to the integration team. 2

“believes,” “estimates,” and similar expressions are used to identify forward-looking statements. Such statements are made in reliance on the safe harbor provisions of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Forward-looking statements include but are not limited to: statements about the expected timing and completion of the proposed merger, the anticipated benefits of the proposed merger, including estimated synergies, the effects of the proposed merger, including on future financial and operating results and financial position, the integration of the parties’ operations, including accelerated investment in technology and technology capabilities, plans and expectations for the combined company, including regarding free cash flow, share repurchases, dividend level, credit ratings and leverage ratio; and other statements that are not historical facts. The parties caution investors that any forward-looking statements are subject to risks and uncertainties, many of which are difficult to predict and generally beyond either party’s control, that may cause actual results and future trends to differ materially from those matters expressed in or implied by such forward-looking statements. Among the risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ from those described in forward-looking statements are the following: the occurrence of any event, change or other circumstances that could give rise to the right of either or both parties to terminate the merger agreement; the outcome of any legal proceedings that may be instituted against either party or their respective directors; the risk that the approval of the stockholders of either party may not be obtained on the expected schedule or at all; the risk that regulatory approvals may not be obtained or other closing conditions may not be satisfied in a timely manner or at all, as well as the risk that regulatory approvals are obtained subject to conditions that are not anticipated; the risk of other delays in closing the merger; risks related to business disruptions from the proposed merger that may harm the business or current plans and operations of either or both parties, including disruption of management time from ongoing business operations; risks related to difficulties, inabilities or delays in integrating the parties’ businesses or to realize fully anticipated cost savings and other benefits; the risk that any announcement relating to the proposed merger could have adverse effects on the market price of the common stock of either or both parties and the uncertainty as to the long-term value of the common stock of the combined company following the merger; the risk that the proposed merger and its announcement could have an adverse effect on the ability of either or both parties to retain and hire key personnel or maintain relationships with suppliers and customers, including the U.S. Government and other governments, and on their operating results and businesses generally; certain restrictions during the pendency of the merger that may impact the ability of either or both parties to pursue certain business opportunities or strategic transactions; the business, economic and political conditions in the markets in which either or both parties operate; and events beyond the control of either or both parties, such as acts of terrorism. The foregoing list of risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ from those described in forward-looking statements is not exhaustive. Further information relating to factors that may impact the parties’ results and forward-looking statements are disclosed in their respective filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The forward-looking statements in this communication are made as of the date of this communication, and the parties disclaim any intention or obligation, other than imposed by law, to update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events, or otherwise. As for forward-looking statements that relate to future financial results and other projections, actual results will be different due to the inherent uncertainties of estimates, forecasts and projections and may be better or worse than projected and such differences could be material. Annualized, pro forma,
