Chairman's Letter to Shareholders

Dear Shareholders,

Asset prices have steadily climbed this year, propelled by a “Goldilocks” economic scenario that enabled markets to sidestep geopolitical tensions, natural disasters, terrorism events and political noise. The U.S. economy continued to run not too hot, not too cold, with steady growth and low levels of unemployment, inflation and interest rates. Corporate earnings have been healthy and recession risk appeared low. At the same time, growth across the rest of the world has improved as well, leading to upward revisions in global growth projections.

Yet, a global synchronized recovery also brings the prospect of higher inflation. Central banks have to manage the delicate balance between too-loose financial conditions, which risks economies overheating, and too-tight conditions, which could trigger recession. The nominee for Chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed), Jerome Powell, is largely expected to maintain the course set by Chair Janet Yellen after her term expires in February 2018. However, uncertainties about fiscal policy remain, particularly as Congress is currently working on a tax overhaul plan. Depending on the details of a tax bill and whether it passes, the Fed's job of managing interest rates could become more complicated in the years ahead.

Meanwhile, politics will remain in the forefront. The U.S. debt ceiling debate resumes in December 2017 when the current extension of the debt limit expires, and rebuilding continues in the wake of Hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria. The ongoing “Brexit” negotiations and the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) talks may impact key trade and political partnerships. Tensions with North Korea may continue to flare.

The magnitude of the market's bullishness this year has been somewhat surprising. But gains may not be so easy in the coming years. Nobody can predict market shifts, which is why Nuveen encourages you to talk to your financial advisor to ensure your investment portfolio is appropriately diversified for your objectives, time horizon and risk tolerance. On behalf of the other members of the Nuveen Fund Board, we look forward to continuing to earn your trust in the months and years ahead.

Sincerely,

William J. Schneider
Chairman of the Board

These Funds feature portfolio management by Nuveen Asset Management, LLC, an affiliate of Nuveen, LLC. Portfolio managers Michael S. Hamilton and Scott R. Romans, PhD, discuss key investment strategies and the six-month performance of the Nuveen Select Portfolios (the "Funds"). Michael has managed the three national Funds since 2016, while Scott has managed NXC since 2003 and NXN since 2011.

What key strategies were used to manage these Funds during the six-month reporting period ended September 30, 2017?

During the six-month reporting period, moderate economic growth, well-signaled policy actions from the Federal Reserve (Fed), a reassessment of political risk and stable municipal credit fundamentals continued to drive demand for municipal bonds, while supply remained relatively tight. Against this backdrop, yields fell (except at the very short end of the yield curve, which rose in concert with the Fed's rate hikes) and credit spreads narrowed, helping the broad municipal market to post a gain for the reporting period. California's municipal bond market performed better than the broad market, while New York's market performed in line with the broad market during this reporting period. During this time, we continued to take a bottom-up approach to discovering sectors that appeared undervalued as well as individual credits that we believed had the potential to perform well over the long term.

Our trading activity continued to focus on pursuing the Funds' investment objectives. NXP, NXQ and NXR focused on buying bonds primarily with short call structures, which offer lower duration profiles, to help maintain the Funds' duration targets. Nevertheless, longer duration bonds occasionally presented compelling long-term opportunities, such as purchases we made in "specialty state" issues. Specialty states offer tax-exemption from both federal and state income taxes to in-state municipal bond buyers and, as a result, can experience periods of heightened demand. Specialty state municipal bonds also tend to trade at lower yields relative to non-specialty state issues, which can offer an attractive relative value opportunity over time. We bought convertible capital appreciation bonds (CABs) issued for Washington County School District Beaverton (Oregon), which were issued as zero coupon bonds then convert to a 5% coupon structure in June 2018, for NXP and NXQ. We also added revenue bonds with short call treatment of split-rated securities may differ from that used for other purposes, such as for Fund investment policies. Credit ratings are subject to change. AAA, AA, A and BBB are investment grade ratings, while BB, B, CCC, CC, C and D are below investment grade ratings. Certain bonds backed by U.S. Government or agency securities are regarded as having an implied rating equal to the rating of such securities. Holdings designated N/R are not rated by these national rating agencies.

Bond insurance guarantees only the payment of principal and interest on the bond when due, and not the value of the bonds themselves, which will fluctuate with the bond market and the financial success of the issuer and the insurer. Insurance relates specifically to the bonds in the portfolio and not to the share prices of a Fund. No representation is made as to the insurers' ability to meet their commitments.

structures issued for Olin College (Massachusetts) and bought Connecticut State Special Tax Obligation Transportation bonds, which were available at attractive prices because the lack of a state budget has depressed the state's bonds for NXP, NXQ and NXR. All three states are specialty states. To fund our buying during the reporting period, we mainly used the proceeds from called bonds. We also sold some short-dated paper and some specialty state bonds that had appreciated in price, reinvesting the cash into new purchases.

In the California Fund, we added lower rated credits in the health care sector and swapped some of the Fund's tobacco settlement bonds for more favorable structures. NXC's buying activity was funded largely with call proceeds. In addition, we sold some 4% coupon bonds as spreads contracted and prices rose, as well as some convertible zero coupon bonds that saw significant spread contraction and large price appreciation. The New York Fund's turnover was more muted than that of the California Fund. NXN's buying focused on bonds offering longer durations and higher grade credit (AA rated), using the proceeds from called bonds.

As of September 30, 2017, NXP, NXQ and NXN continued to use inverse floating rate securities. We employ inverse floaters for a variety of reasons, including duration management, income enhancement and total return enhancement.

How did the Funds perform during the six-month reporting period ended September 30, 2017?

The tables in each Fund's Performance Overview and Holding Summaries section of this report provide the Funds' total returns for the six-month, one-year, five-year and ten-year periods ended September 30, 2017. Each Fund's returns on common share net asset value (NAV) are compared with the performance of corresponding market indexes.

For the six months ended September 30, 2017, the total returns on common share NAV for NXC and NXN outperformed the national S&P Municipal Bond Index and their respective state's S&P Municipal Bond Index. The three national Funds, NXP, NXQ and NXR, outperformed the national S&P Municipal Bond Index during the six-month reporting period.

The factors affecting performance in this reporting period included duration and yield curve positioning, credit ratings allocations and sector exposures. In addition, the use of leverage had a negligible impact on the performance of NXP, NXQ and NXR during the current reporting period. The impact of leverage on NXN over the reporting period was slightly positive, while NXC did not use leverage during the reporting period. Leverage is discussed in more detail later in the Fund Leverage section of this report.

The strongest contributor to the Funds' relative outperformance was duration and yield curve positioning. In this reporting period, longer duration bonds performed better than those with shorter durations. All five Funds were positioned with overweight allocations to long duration bonds, which was advantageous to performance.

The Funds' bias toward lower rated issues was another positive contributor to performance. The five Funds held underweight allocations to AAA and AA rated credits and overweight allocations to A rated and below bonds, which was advantageous because the lower grade segments outperformed the high grade segments in this reporting period.

Sector positioning added modest gains to the Funds' relative results. In this reporting period, sectors with higher concentrations of lower rated bonds, such as tobacco and health care, outperformed, while pre-refunded and tax-supported sectors trailed, due to their bonds' higher credit ratings. NXP, NXR and NXQ benefited from underweight exposure to tax-supported bonds, especially in dedicated tax bonds, despite an underweight in local general obligation bonds slightly detracting from performance. The three national Funds benefited from an overweight in the health care sector and hospital bonds in particular. However, the three Funds' underweight to the transportation sector was unfavorable to performance. NXC and NXN were aided by exposures to the tobacco, industrial development revenue/pollution control revenue (IDR/PCR), health care and transportation sectors, while allocations to pre-refunded and tax-supported credits tempered relative gains.

An Update Involving Puerto Rico

As noted in the Funds' previous shareholder reports, we continue to monitor situations in the broader municipal market for any impact on the Funds' holdings and performance: Puerto Rico's ongoing debt restructuring is one such case. Puerto Rico began warning investors in 2014 the island's debt burden might prove to be unsustainable and the Commonwealth pursued various strategies to deal with this burden.

In June 2016, President Obama signed the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management and Economic Stability Act (PROMESA) into law. The legislation established an independent Financial Oversight and Management Board charged with restructuring Puerto Rico's financial operations and encouraging economic development. In addition to creating an oversight board, PROMESA also provides a legal framework and court-supervised debt restructuring process that enables Puerto Rico to adjust its debt obligations. In March 2017, the oversight board certified a ten-year fiscal plan projecting revenues, expenditures and a primary fiscal surplus available for debt service over the plan's horizon. The fiscal plan was considered quite detrimental to creditors, identifying available resources to pay only about 24% of debt service due over the ten-year term. In May 2017, the oversight board initiated a bankruptcy-like process for the general government, general obligation debt, the Puerto Rico Sales Tax Financing Corporation (COFINA), the Highways and Transportation Authority (HTA), and the Employee Retirement System. Officials have indicated more public corporations could follow. As of September 2017, Puerto Rico has defaulted on many of its debt obligations, including General Obligation bonds.

In mid-September 2017, Puerto Rico was severely impacted by two hurricanes within the span of just two weeks causing massive destruction. Rebuilding is expected to take months and some parts of Puerto Rico may need years to fully recover. Puerto Rico's Oversight Board has said it will approve budgetary adjustments up to an amount of $1 billion to fund emergency relief efforts. Though it's too early to accurately assess the long-term economic impact of the storms, recovering from the tragic damage caused by the hurricanes will likely prolong the restructuring process that was already underway under PROMESA.

In terms of Puerto Rico holdings, shareholders should note that NXC, NXN and NXP had no exposure to Puerto Rico debt during this reporting period, while NXQ and NXR had allocations of 0.40% and 0.48%, respectively, at the end of the reporting period, which were all insured. The Puerto Rico credits offered higher yields, added diversification and triple exemption (i.e., exemption from most federal, state and local taxes). Puerto Rico general obligation debt is currently in default and rated Caa3/D/D by Moody's, S&P and Fitch, respectively, with negative outlooks.

Note About Investment Valuations

The municipal securities held by the Funds are valued by the Funds' pricing service using a range of market-based inputs and assumptions. A different municipal pricing service might incorporate different assumptions and inputs into its valuation methodology, potentially resulting in different values for the same securities. Thus, the current net asset value of a Fund's shares might be impacted, higher or lower, if the Fund were to use a different pricing service, or if its pricing service were to materially change its valuation methodology. On October 4, 2016, the Fund's then-current municipal bond pricing service was acquired by the parent company of another pricing service, and the combination of the valuation methodologies used by the two organizations took place on October 16, 2017, subsequent to the close of the reporting period of this report. The change of valuation methodologies due to that combination had little or no impact on the net asset value of each Fund's shares.

Fund Leverage

IMPACT OF THE FUNDS' LEVERAGE STRATEGIES ON PERFORMANCE

One important factor impacting the returns of the Funds relative to their comparative benchmarks was the Funds' use of leverage through investments in inverse floating rate securities, which represent leveraged investments in underlying bonds. The Funds use leverage because our research has shown that, over time, leveraging provides opportunities for additional income, particularly in the recent market environment where short-term market rates are at or near historical lows, meaning that the short-term rates the Fund has been paying on its leveraging instruments have been much lower than the interest the Fund has been earning on its portfolio of long-term bonds that it has bought with the proceeds of that leverage. However, use of leverage also can expose the Fund to additional price volatility. When a Fund uses leverage, the Fund will experience a greater increase in its net asset value if the municipal bonds acquired through the use of leverage increase in value, but it will also experience a correspondingly larger decline in its net asset value if the bonds acquired through leverage decline in value, which will make the Fund's net asset value more volatile, and its total return performance more variable over time. In addition, income in levered funds will typically decrease in comparison to unlevered funds when short-term interest rates increase and increase when short-term interest rates decrease. Leverage had a negligible impact on the performance of NXP, NXQ and NXR during the current reporting period. The impact of leverage on NXN over the reporting period was slightly positive, while NXC did not use leverage during the reporting period.

As of September 30, 2017, the Funds' percentages of leverage are as shown in the accompanying table.

	NXP	NXQ	NXR	NXC	NXN
Effective Leverage*	0.87 %	1.41 %	0.00 %	0.00 %	4.93 %

Effective Leverage is a Fund's effective economic leverage, and includes both regulatory leverage and the leverage effects of certain derivative and other investments in a Fund's portfolio that increase the Fund's investment exposure.

* Currently, the leverage effects of Tender Option Bond (TOB) inverse floater holdings are included in effective leverage values. A Fund, however, may from time to time borrow on a typically transient basis in connection with its day-to-day operations, primarily in connection with the need to settle portfolio trades. Such incidental borrowings are excluded from the calculation of a Fund's effective leverage ratio.

Share Information

DISTRIBUTION INFORMATION

The following information regarding the Funds' distributions is current as of September 30, 2017. Each Fund's distribution levels may vary over time based on each Fund's investment activity and portfolio investment value changes.

During the current reporting period, each Fund's distributions to shareholders were as shown in the accompanying table.

Monthly Distributions (Ex-Dividend Date)	Per Share Amounts
	NXP	NXQ	NXR	NXC	NXN
April 2017	$0.0455	$0.0420	$0.0435	$0.0495	$0.0460

Total Distributions from Net Investment Income	$0.2730	$0.2520	$0.2610	$0.2955	$0.2760

Yields

Market Yield*	3.66	%	3.59	%	3.44	%	3.70	%	3.94	%
Taxable-Equivalent Yield*	5.08	%	4.99	%	4.78	%	5.67	%	5.86	%

Market Yield is based on the Fund's current annualized monthly dividend divided by the Fund's current market price as of the end of the reporting period. Taxable-Equivalent Yield represents the yield that must be earned on a fully taxable investment in order to equal the yield of the Fund on an after-tax basis. It is based on a combined federal and state income tax rate of 28.0%, 28.0%, 28.0%, 34.7% and 32.8% for NXP, NXQ, NXR, NXC and NXN, respectively. When comparing a Fund to investments that generate qualified dividend income, the Taxable-Equivalent Yield would be lower.

Each Fund in this report seeks to pay regular monthly dividends out of its net investment income at a rate that reflects its past and projected net income performance. To permit each Fund to maintain a more stable monthly dividend, the Fund may pay dividends at a rate that may be more or less than the amount of net income actually earned by the Fund during the period. If a Fund has cumulatively earned more than it has paid in dividends, it will hold the excess in reserve as undistributed net investment income (UNII) as part of the Fund's net asset value. Conversely, if a Fund has cumulatively paid in dividends more than it has earned, the excess will constitute a negative UNII that will likewise be reflected in the Fund's net asset value. Each Fund will, over time, pay all its net investment income as dividends to shareholders.

As of September 30, 2017, the Funds had positive UNII balances, based upon our best estimate, for tax purposes. NXP, NXQ and NXR had positive UNII balances while NXC and NXN had negative UNII balances for financial reporting purposes.

All monthly dividends paid by each Fund during the current reporting period were paid from net investment income. If a portion of the Fund's monthly distributions was sourced from or comprised of elements other than net investment income, including capital gains and/or a return of capital, shareholders would have received a notice to that effect. For financial reporting purposes, the composition and per share amounts of each Fund's dividends for the reporting period are presented in this report's Statement of Changes in Net Assets and Financial Highlights, respectively. For income tax purposes, distribution information for each Fund as of its most recent tax year end is presented in Note 6 — Income Tax Information within the Notes to Financial Statements of this report.
