< SHAREHOLDERS PROPOSAL (PROPOSAL 4) >

Proposal 4 is proposed by 36 shareholders.

4. To amend the Articles of Incorporation with respect to disclosure to shareholders regarding remuneration paid to each Director.

(1) Proposal

It is proposed that the Corporation add the following new provision to its Articles of Incorporation:

With respect to remuneration determined by the Compensation Committee and paid to Directors during a business year, the amount of remuneration paid to each of the top five (5) Directors in terms of amount of remuneration shall be disclosed in the business report that is attached to the convocation notice of the ordinary general meeting of shareholders held with respect to such business year.

(2) Reasons for Proposal

Since 2002, essentially the same proposal has been submitted for approval. Last year, the proposal was accepted by shareholders holding 46.7% of voting shares. In the United States, it is said that if shareholder proposals are accepted by 10% or more of voters, the board of directors must reflect in its governance this voice of the shareholders. In this sense, a nearly 50% in-favor vote is significant. These figures reflect the global trend toward disclosing the remuneration paid to individual directors.

The Board of Directors says that disclosing the total amount of remuneration is sufficient. However, the convocation notice for last year's general meeting of shareholders indicated only that Directors and Corporate Executive Officers were paid a total of ¥2,440 million (fixed remuneration of ¥969 million + bonus linked to business results of ¥297 million + retirement allowances of ¥1,174 million). The remuneration paid to the three Corporate Executive Officers who are also Directors whether in total or individually is unclear. Now in particular, to augment management transparency, it is essential to disclose the individual remuneration of at least the top five (5) Directors. The proposal outlined above is based on the conviction that such disclosure will raise Sony's international standing and augment corporate value.

< Opinion of the Board of Directors of the Corporation >

The Board of Directors of the Corporation opposes the proposal.

The Corporation has taken various measures within the framework of the Commercial Code to separate the role of Executive Officer and Director and to strengthen the Corporation's Corporate Governance, including the introduction of the Corporate Executive Officer system in 1997, which is unique to the Corporation. In addition, upon completion of the ordinary general meeting of shareholders held in 2003, the Corporation adopted the new corporate governance system under the Commercial Code referred to as the Company with Committees system. As a result, three statutory committees were established: the Nominating Committee, the Audit Committee, and the Compensation Committee, and a majority of members of each of those committees consists of outside Directors. Under this new corporate governance system, Corporate Executive Officers were also established. Under this committee system, the amounts of remuneration for each Director and Corporate Executive Officer are determined by the Compensation Committee, and the basic policy regarding remuneration for the Directors and the Corporate Executive Officers as determined by the Compensation Committee has been disclosed in the Corporation's Business Report.

The aggregate amount of remuneration paid to the Directors and the Corporate Executive Officers by the Corporation has been disclosed to all shareholders in the Corporation's Business Report with a breakdown of fixed remuneration, bonuses linked to business results, and retirement allowances paid to both groups of Directors and Corporate Executive Officers. In addition, in the basic policy regarding remuneration for Directors and Corporate Executive Officers, the Corporation will clarify that the decision on remuneration is an objective decision that is based on research by a third party regarding remuneration of management of both domestic and foreign companies. Moreover, the Corporation has concretely disclosed a standard for the determination of the amounts of bonus linked to business results. Starting from the fiscal year ended March 31, 2006, for the purpose of realizing remuneration linked to business results and shareholder value, the Corporation has repealed the retirement allowance system and introduced a retirement shares allowance system linked to the Corporation's share price. (Please refer to pages 18 and 19)

The Board of Directors believes that the Corporation's current procedure that discloses the aggregate amount of remuneration for Directors and Corporate Executive Officers and clarifies the standard of distribution is adequate from the standpoint of existing law, business practice and corporate governance.

In addition to executive remuneration, the Corporation will continue to disclose beneficial information for our shareholders and investors; therefore, the Board of Directors opposes the establishment of the provision under this proposal that forces the Directors to disclose individual remuneration.

At the 89th Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders held on June 22, 2006, of the number of voting rights held by shareholders in attendance, the number of voting rights exercised up to the preceding day in writing and via the Internet was reported, with a breakdown of the number of in favor and opposed votes for each proposal. It later became evident, however, that due to an administrative mistake in the calculation, a portion of voting rights exercised as opposed to the shareholder proposal were counted as votes in favor of such proposal. As a result, the number of voting rights in favor of the shareholder proposal has been corrected to 42% of the number of voting rights exercised in writing and via the Internet, while the Corporation previously reported that such number represented 47%.
