The following is a memorandum sent to the employees of the Canadian and Corporate divisions of Manulife Financial Corporation.

MEMO TO CANADIAN AND CORPORATE DIVISIONS

Earlier today, Manulife Financial Corporate and John Hancock Financial Services, Inc. announced their plans to merge the two companies. This is a very exciting time in Manulife Financial's history, and for its Canadian Division particularly. The proposed merger between Manulife and John Hancock will be a tremendous opportunity for growth, as well as a time of great change. As a key leader at Manulife, you have an integral role in the first few weeks of this merger. Employees will look to you for leadership, and although no one has all of the answers right now, we ask that you set a positive, forward-looking tone.

In Canada, this merger presents us with four major opportunities:

- the creation of a powerful insurance franchise
- access to new complementary products
- introduction of new and diverse distribution channels
- expanded presence in Eastern Canada.

These are positive changes for our company and will allow us to become a leading player in all of our core businesses. It is important that employees realize that -- as Dominic D'Alessandro mentioned in his initial email -- this is "fundamentally, a combination not a consolidation" of the two companies.

Edgar Filing: HANCOCK JOHN FINANCIAL SERVICES INC - Form 425

That said, employees' natural response to this news would be, "what will happen to me?" Your role during this time can be crucial to quelling rumors and keeping employees focused on the job at hand, which is to continue working toward achieving our 2003 financial results. We do know the following and hope you will share this information with your employees.

The Manulife Financial merit and incentive programs will be implemented on a normal basis for 2004. Manulife Financial benefit programs will continue in 2004. We expect to utilize normal attrition and enhanced growth rates over the three-year integration period to absorb most of the staff-related synergies contemplated in the merger. We will offer competitive severance packages where redundancies occur.

We realize that this information is most likely new to you as well. It is important that you communicate honestly with employees, and it is appropriate to say, "I don't know yet," if that is in fact the case. I have attached some Do's and Don'ts to give you some guidance.

Manulife Financial and John Hancock Financials Services, Inc. have announced their plans to merge the two companies, creating one of North America's largest

As a result of the merger, it is our intention to keep significant workforces in Toronto, Boston, Kitchener-Waterloo, Halifax and Montreal, as well as Hong Kong, Japan and Southeast Asia. We anticipate related workforce savings will be achieved through normal attrition during the lengthy integration process, combined with healthy business growth. Our primary focus will be on maintaining

This merger positions the combined company as the second largest life insurer in North America based on market cap. We will look to the leaders of the company to positively convey all appropriate key messages and to help employees understand that they have a choice in how they approach the merger. Successful employees will see the positives in this new combined company and seize opportunities available to them.

FEATURES

The merger will make Manulife the largest life insurance company in Canada and create North America's fourth largest life insurer by assets and second largest by market capitalization.

Manulife also will continue to have a strong global presence with significant operations in Hong Kong and Japan, as well as an even stronger presence in Southeast Asia with the addition of John Hancock's operations there.

We anticipate that the combined companies will be much stronger financially, with greatly enhanced scale across a diversified set of businesses, a strong and stable investment portfolio and a significantly expanded capital base. The company also will have a more diversified and balanced earnings base, 54% of which will come from life insurance sales.

ADVANTAGES

This combination turns two exceptionally strong and complementary companies into a single, integrated and leading global insurance franchise whose scale and capital base will lend to even greater growth and shareholder value.

This new entity will have economies of scale and be able to leverage the strengths of both companies to create the best opportunities for growth and for adding to shareholder value.

The transaction will position the company to compete more aggressively, improve its market position and generate stronger earnings.

BENEFITS

The new company will have:

- Access to deeper and more diversified distribution capabilities;
- A more diverse and competitive product line, and the ability to make each company's best products available to all distributors;
- Strong, high quality brands to market, including John Hancock, which will be the primary brand in the United States; and Manulife, which will be the primary brand in Canada;
- Increased capacity to grow profitable core lines of business;

Edgar Filing: HANCOCK JOHN FINANCIAL SERVICES INC - Form 425

- Stronger and leading market positions in all core business lines;
- A more diversified and balanced earnings base, 54% of which will come from life insurance sales;
- Top tier financial scale and strength;
- A consolidation of operations in the United States, Canada and Asia with estimated cost synergies of approximately Cdn$350 million (US$255 million) pre-tax, phased in over three years.

FOR CUSTOMERS

The merger will have no impact on the benefits, premiums, values or guarantees of current policies or contracts. The merger will not affect the products in which you have invested.

John Hancock has one of the best-known brands in the United States and it will become our primary brand for retail products and services there. Where appropriate, however, certain Manulife products will continue to be marketed in the U.S. under their existing brand name.

Manulife has one of the best-known brands in Canada and it will remain our primary brand for products sold there. Most products and services of Maritime Life, John Hancock's Canadian subsidiary, will be marketed under the Manulife brand name, although certain Maritime Life products may continue to be marketed under their existing brand name.

FOR EMPLOYEES

After the merger, we intend to maintain significant workforces in Toronto, Boston, Kitchener-Waterloo, Halifax and Montreal, as well as in our Hong Kong, Japan and Southeast Asian operations.

We anticipate, however, realizing some savings through workforce reductions. As the integration process moves forward, all areas of the combined companies will be reviewed and overlaps in responsibilities will be identified. This will drive the decisions on which positions are eliminated.

Nevertheless, it is our hope and expectation that the growth prospects of the combined companies will ultimately limit the number of reductions that prove necessary and that a majority of these reductions will occur through normal attrition during the integration process.

In the meantime, our primary focus will be on maintaining service to our customers, which requires talented, engaged employees.

COMMITMENT

Our businesses must continue as usual in order to be successful. We are committed to realizing our vision to be the most professional life insurance company in the world. We will continue to work hard to meet the needs of our existing customers and producers, and execute extraordinarily well

MEMO TO U.S. DIVISION

The First Week after a Merger Announcement
Some thoughts for US Division Management

It will take everyone a week or two to absorb and understand the recent merger announcement:

- * This is "new news" to most employees. Many will need to think it through and ask questions.
- * There will never be enough information.
- * Rumors will be everywhere.
- * Try to keep employees focused on the facts (e.g. employee meetings, press release, analysts' presentation).

The impact of a merger announcement on employees can be as diverse as they are. Here are some typical dynamics that you may see:

- * Ambiguity: After the first few days where information is plentiful, the flow of information decreases and this can be frustrating to employees.
- * Trust: Because the merger was a surprise announcement, some employees may believe that they can't trust management as much. If the announcement refers to synergies or some job loss, some will be suspicious about the ultimate outcomes.
- * Communication: Employees will want and expect there to be perfect information about every aspect of merging. The truth is that decisions take time and many things cannot be shared for a quite some time. The opportunity for communication breakdowns and misinterpretation of events is very high.
- * Lack of control: Until the integration planning begins, there can be a perception that with a merger, employees and managers don't have a great deal of control over their destinies.

- * Impact on morale and productivity: With some or all of the above factors in play, there is a natural tendency to spend time talking and thinking about what may happen.

You have a special role in the first couple of weeks in helping to defuse some of these scenarios. This is when our employees, vendors and customers need the confidence of leadership. You will not have many answers, but you can still lead by:

- * Setting a positive, forward looking tone:
 - o Draw on the major opportunities that the US Division has in extended product through new channels and producing incremental growth.
 - o Reinforce the messages from the US employee presentation.
 - o Show your own support. Everyone will take their lead from your attitude.
- * Be physically present: Take some time to walk around. Employees will appreciate seeing you and having some time to ask questions.
- * Do what you can to stem rumors and speculation.
- * Focus employees on our business:
 - o Remind them we have a good year going and that our wholesalers and customers need us to support them.
- * Help employees understand that they have a choice in how they approach the merger:
 - o They can pretend change won't occur; but some change is inevitable
 - o OR they see and seize the opportunities for themselves and the combined company.
- * Be prepared to "take the temperature" of your group several times during the first month. Continue to communicate as much as you can. Funnel key issues and questions through your Business Unit head and/or HR business partner.

The period between announcement and close could last 6-7 months. While decisions will be made, little will be actually implemented. Employees can get frustrated, thinking that move should be happening. The trick is to manage their expectations about what is happening and what will happen later.

- * Remind employees that the merger is completely dependent on regulatory approvals and a shareholder vote.
- * Be prepared to explain the pace of the changes (6 months from now)
- * Sometime this fall, we will begin an internal newsletter to communicate key decisions that impact the organization.

The following is a list of key messages and talking points.

KEY MESSAGES/TALKING POINTS

FEATURES

The merger will make Manulife the largest life insurance company in Canada and create North America's fourth largest life insurer by assets and second largest by market capitalization.

Manulife also will continue to have a strong global presence with significant operations in Hong Kong and Japan, as well as an even stronger presence in Southeast Asia with the addition of John Hancock's operations there.

We anticipate that the combined companies will be much stronger financially, with greatly enhanced scale across a diversified set of businesses, a strong and stable investment portfolio and a significantly expanded capital base. The company also will have a more diversified and balanced earnings base, 54% of which will come from life insurance sales.

ADVANTAGES

This combination turns two exceptionally strong and complementary companies into a single, integrated and leading global insurance franchise whose scale and capital base will lend to even greater growth and shareholder value.

This new entity will have economies of scale and be able to leverage the strengths of both companies to create the best opportunities for growth and for adding to shareholder value. The transaction will position the company to compete more aggressively, improve its market position and generate stronger earnings.

BENEFITS

The new company will have:

- Access to deeper and more diversified distribution capabilities;
- A more diverse and competitive product line, and the ability to make each company's best products available to all distributors;
- Strong, high quality brands to market, including John Hancock, which will be the primary brand in the United States; and Manulife, which will be the primary brand in Canada;
- Increased capacity to grow profitable core lines of business;
- Stronger and leading market positions in all core business lines;
- A more diversified and balanced earnings base, 54% of which will come from life insurance sales;
- Top tier financial scale and strength;

- A consolidation of operations in the United States, Canada and Asia with estimated cost synergies of approximately Cdn$350 million (US$255 million) pre-tax, phased in over three years.

FOR CUSTOMERS

The merger will have no impact on the benefits, premiums, values or guarantees of current policies or contracts. The merger will not affect the products in which you have invested.

John Hancock has one of the best-known brands in the United States and it will become our primary brand for retail products and services there. Where appropriate, however, certain Manulife products will continue to be marketed in the U.S. under their existing brand name.

Manulife has one of the best-known brands in Canada and it will remain our primary brand for products sold there. Most products and services of Maritime Life, John Hancock's Canadian subsidiary, will be marketed under the Manulife brand name, although certain Maritime Life products may continue to be marketed under their existing brand name.

FOR EMPLOYEES

After the merger, we intend to maintain significant workforces in Toronto, Boston, Kitchener-Waterloo, Halifax and Montreal, as well as in our Hong Kong,

Edgar Filing: HANCOCK JOHN FINANCIAL SERVICES INC - Form 425

Japan and Southeast Asian operations.

We anticipate, however, realizing some savings through workforce reductions. As the integration process moves forward, all areas of the combined companies will be reviewed and overlaps in responsibilities will be identified. This will drive the decisions on which positions are eliminated.

Nevertheless, it is our hope and expectation that the growth prospects of the combined companies will ultimately limit the number of reductions that prove necessary and that a majority of these reductions will occur through normal attrition during the integration process.

In the meantime, our primary focus will be on maintaining service to our customers, which requires talented, engaged employees.

COMMITMENT

Our businesses must continue as usual in order to be successful. We are committed to realizing our vision to be the most professional life insurance company in the world. We will continue to work hard to meet the needs of our existing customers and producers, and execute extraordinarily well.
