Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure.

In its quarterly letter to shareholders for the quarter ended March 31, 2006, which will be distributed shortly, Apache Corporation will announce an update on preferential rights exercises relating to the previously announced BP Gulf of Mexico acquisition. At the time of the original BP announcement, Apache indicated that a number of the properties in the package were subject to preferential rights to purchase by other interest owners. As of June 1, 2006, other interest owners had exercised their preferential rights to purchase $379 million of properties, with decisions on $116 million of assets still outstanding. The final results of preferential rights exercises will not be known for a few weeks; however, presently, Apache is assured of acquiring $805 million of properties, or 62 percent of the transaction's original value and 75 percent of the reserves. These totals may rise to $921 million and 83 percent of the reserves depending on the election of the owners in those fields still outstanding.

Apache is assured of acquiring nine operated fields and two non-operated fields that have estimated proved reserves of 19 million barrels of liquid hydrocarbons and 146 billion cubic feet (Bcf) of natural gas (86 percent is operated). The remaining fields still subject to preferential rights (one operated and one non-operated) could add 1 million barrels and 15 Bcf to the total. On the fields, Apache has identified 49 drilling locations and 4 million barrels of liquids and 24 Bcf of natural gas in probable and possible reserves. The transaction is expected to close by the end of the second quarter.

The transaction is expected to be additive to earnings and cash flow going forward. Currently, assets that have cleared the preferential rights process have net production of 3,600 barrels of liquid hydrocarbons and 85 million cubic feet (MMcf) of natural gas per day, with 350 barrels and 10 MMcf per day still awaiting election by preferential rights holders. Production is expected to grow over the next two years as fields damaged in the 2005 hurricanes are brought back online. BP retains liability for plugging and abandoning numerous platforms, wells and facilities toppled or damaged beyond repair by the hurricanes.

Because of the impact of preferential rights elections on the size of the BP transaction and the one-month delay in finalizing the Argentina acquisition, Apache will also modify its production growth outlook slightly, from a range of 12 percent to 17 percent to a range of 10 percent to 15 percent. With production slated to increase and Apache's strong financial position, the company's Board of Directors authorized purchasing up to 15 million shares of the company's common stock. As of May 30, 2006, 2 million shares had been purchased at an average price of $71.69 per share.
