1. What is the proposed transaction?

Clear Channel Communications, Inc. has agreed to be acquired by a group led by of Thomas H. Lee Partners, L.P. and Bain Capital Partners LLC, in a transaction with a total equity value of approximately $18.7 billion at a price of $37.60 per share in cash, subject to an upward adjustment ticking fee in the event the transaction closes on or after January 1, 2008.

The transaction will be subject to shareholder approval, antitrust clearances, FCC approval and other customary closing conditions. The private equity group has agreed to take all appropriate steps that are necessary to obtain antitrust clearances and FCC approval.

Clear Channel may seek alternative proposals from third parties through December 7, 2006 and may negotiate any alternative proposal that it receives during the period through January 5, 2007. In addition, Clear Channel may, under certain circumstances, respond to unsolicited proposals that the Clear Channel Board receives after December 7, 2006 that it determines are on terms more favorable than the merger terms.

2. What will I receive for my shares of Clear Channel common stock in the merger? Will I continue to receive dividends?

Upon completion of the Merger, you will receive $37.60 in cash, without interest, for each share of Clear Channel common stock that you own.

In addition, if the completion of the Merger occurs after January 1, 2008, you will also receive an additional ticking fee in an amount equal to the lesser of (i) the pro rata portion, based upon the number of days elapsed since January 1, 2008, of $37.60 multiplied by 8% per annum, per share and (ii) Clear Channel's Free Cash Flow (as defined in the merger agreement) generated during the period from January 1, 2008 until closing.

You will continue to receive dividends on your shares quarterly, at the rate of $0.1875 per share, subject to the board's recommendation on dividend policy, until the transaction closes.

Upon closing, the company's shares will cease trading on the NYSE, and you will not own shares in the new privately-held Clear Channel.

3. What happens next?

Within 30 days, Clear Channel will file a preliminary proxy statement with the SEC. This proxy statement will contain information about the transaction and will be available to the public. Once any SEC review is completed, a definitive proxy statement will be filed with the SEC and mailed to shareholders. Following the mailing of the definitive proxy statement, a meeting will be held within 45 days after the proxy mailing and shareholders will vote on the transaction. If the Merger is approved, and all regulatory approvals and other closing conditions are met thereafter, the Merger can be closed.

4. What percentage of shareholder vote is required for approval?
This transaction requires the affirmative vote of the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding Clear Channel common stock.
5. When will the deal be finalized?
We currently anticipate that the transaction will be completed by the end of year 2007, depending on regulatory approvals.
6. Will the merger consideration be taxable to me?

7. What effect will the transaction have on Clear Channel's creditors?
Certain information about the treatment of our debt may be found in the Merger Agreement, a copy of which will be filed today with the SEC. Additional information will be included in the proxy statement that will be prepared in connection with the transaction.
8. Are there financing conditions?

The all-cash offer represents a premium of approximately 25% over Clear Channel's average daily closing share price during the 30 trading days ended October 24, 2006, the last trading day prior to Clear Channel's statement that it was evaluating strategic alternatives.

This transaction offers our shareholders substantial value for their investment in Clear Channel.

10. What transactions/alternatives were considered during the review process?
The board of directors conducted a thorough and careful review of strategic alternatives, evaluating the private equity group's proposal in the context of Clear Channel's stand-alone strategic plan, proposals from another consortium as well as other strategic alternatives.

14. Who were the independent board members that did the review and decided what the best alternative would be for Clear Channel? What financial advisor did they have?

17. How will this transaction impact Lowry Mays, Mark Mays and Randall Mays? Will they sell their shares?
Lowry Mays will continue to serve in the new privately-held company and intends to invest a portion of his equity stake in Clear Channel alongside the private equity group members.

Mark Mays will remain as CEO and intends to invest a portion of his equity stake in Clear Channel alongside the private equity group members in the new privately-held Clear Channel.

Randall Mays will remain as President and CFO and intends to invest a portion of his equity stake in Clear Channel alongside the private equity group members in the new privately-held company.

18. How will Clear Channel stock options and warrants be treated in the Merger?
Each outstanding stock option and warrant to purchase shares of Clear Channel common stock with a per share exercise price of less than $37.60 will become fully vested and will entitle the holder to the spread between the $37.60 and the exercise price per share.

With limited exceptions, each outstanding stock option and warrant to purchase shares of Clear Channel common stock with a per share exercise price in excess of $37.60 will be cancelled.

19. How does this transaction impact me as a Clear Channel Outdoor (NYSE:CCO) shareholder?

This transaction contemplates the acquisition of CCU shares, not CCO shares.

20. What is the break-up fee / reverse break-up fee?

A break-up fee ranging between $300 - $500 million may be payable by Clear Channel if the transaction is terminated in certain circumstances. Similarly, a reverse break-up fee ranging between $300 - $600 million may be payable by the consortium to Clear Channel if the transaction is terminated in certain circumstances. Details of these fees are contained in the merger agreement, a copy of which is being filed with the SEC today.

21. Will jobs be eliminated?

The terms of the merger agreement do not call for the elimination of any positions. Aside from the announcement we made today about selling radio stations that are not in the top-100 markets and all of our television division, we are not planning any major layoffs or divestitures. We have been undergoing a shift in focus in the radio division, from being focused mainly on on-air broadcasts to a more balanced approach to investing in our business that shift will mean more jobs focused on our radio business's high-growth areas, such as online.

22. Will the corporate headquarters remain in San Antonio?

There are no plans to relocate the corporate offices.

23. How long had the management team and/or/board been considering alternatives?

We've continually looked at maximizing shareholder value. When the value proposition has proven to be large enough, we've acted. Last year, we strategically realigned the company to a significant degree. During this year, we came to believe that becoming a private company would create significant new benefits, especially given the investment profile that we believe is required to maintain our success and leadership.
