ITEM 8.01 OTHER EVENTS

Equity LifeStyle Properties, Inc. announced comments on the Company's second quarter performance. The comments reflect the prepared remarks of Thomas Heneghan, President and CEO of the Company. The remarks should be read in conjunction with the second quarter earnings release issued separately today.

"We are very pleased with our results for the second quarter of 2005, especially with the progress made on the 2005 goals we identified during our year-end 2004 conference call, including sales, site utilization, development and capital redeployment.

We continue to improve both the volume and profitability of our new home sales. We have introduced new cottage designs in our resort properties that are being well received by our customers. In addition, the design and quality improvements made over the years with our resort homes have enabled us to meet the demands of customers seeking high quality, aesthetically pleasing newer homes at reasonable prices in attractive locations.

Although we still have much to do in 2005, we are also preparing for 2006. We continue to make progress on our ability to use our breadth of locations, price points and multiple use options to meet the lifestyle demands of both active RVer's and those seeking second home, seasonal home or active retirement housing opportunities. These efforts include an emphasis on print and Internet marketing and customer loyalty programs.

Our business allows interested customers to enjoy the lifestyle benefits available in our communities by leasing our shareholders' land for the placement of their home, cottage, or recreational vehicle. This allows our customers to enjoy locations that would otherwise be unavailable or which would require additional capital to obtain.

We believe this relationship is an attractive value proposition for our customers while also providing our shareholders a stable and predictable investment in real estate.

However, in certain locations where demand has resulted in generally higher housing costs, there is sometimes a tension between the rights of our shareholders to benefit from the appreciation of their real estate and the desire of some customers to control their housing costs. It is this tension that underpins our property rights related initiatives regarding rent control and other regulations impacting our properties.

Recent decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court avoided creating certain "bright line" tests to determine when legislative actions affecting property rights have gone too far. Instead, the decisions focused on an inquiry into the nature and impact of the specific legislative action. In response, various constituencies have been lobbying for increased protection of private property rights.

One outcome of the decisions is renewed activity in the litigation regarding our property in San Rafael, California.

With respect to other goals, we expect to expand properties in Arizona,

Florida, North Carolina and Illinois by approximately 500 sites in 2006 and we continue to evaluate additional development and redevelopment opportunities in Florida, Arizona, Maine, Texas, California, Washington and Oregon.

Finally, we continue to evaluate properties for sale. We are currently marketing seven properties. Our goal is to redeploy capital away from these affordable housing properties and towards properties geared toward lifestyle opportunities. We believe the demographic and cultural trends over the next decade and beyond bode well for investments geared toward lifestyle."

This news release includes certain "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. These forward-looking statements are based on management's present expectations and beliefs about future events. As with any projection or forecast, these statements are inherently susceptible to uncertainty and changes in circumstances.
